HUNDREDS KILLED IN GERMAN RIOTS

Berlin, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—Hundreds of persons have been killed and wounded in a terrific wave of violence in the Rhineland within the past 48 hours.

Communists, separatists, anti-separatists, peasants and police were involved in the fighting. There was much looting. The fury of the population of the Honeff region against the separatists is taking the form of terrible cruelty. Since Tuesday 120 separatists have been beaten to death in that district and others were lynched. Bloody fighting continues.

A motor bus containing thirty separatists in flight in the Rhineland was held up and all were dragged from the car. Twenty-three were

THREE FEUDISTS ARE SLAIN IN TENNESSEE MOUNTAINS

Cookeville, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Three men are dead and another seriously injured as the result of a gun fight between John Buckner and his son and Joe Woody and his son, according to a report received here from the mountainous section of Fentress and Cumberland counties.

It is reported that Buckner, mistaking his son for young Woody, shot and instantly killed him after having killed the two Woodys. Buckner is reported to be seriously injured, having been shot in the face by young Woody. Because Buckner's recovery is doubtful he has not been arrested.

GIRL'S LOVE FOR CONVICT LEADS HER TO GEM THEFTS

New York, Nov. 22.—Love for her convict sweetheart, soon to be released from Sing Sing, and her desire to accumulate money so that he could establish a home in California, led Louise Johnson, twenty-three, twice to rob the Long Island home of Mrs. Beverly Robinson in Merrimack, according to the story she told detectives today. She was arrested here on a charge of stealing $13,500 worth of jewelry and wearing apparel.

In her possession was found a packet of love letters from the convict. His name was withheld by the police, who said he was an artist of evident refinement.

'VOODOO DOCTOR' CONVICTED OF MURDERING GIRL NURSE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 22.—Lorenzo Savage, negro, known as a "voodoo doctor," was found guilty of first degree murder today. He was tried for the murder of Miss Elsie Barthel, a nurse whose body, with the head crushed, was found near a deserted mansion in the East End several months ago.

The prosecution charged Savage killed the girl when she refused to pay him for a "love charm."

Defense counsel maintained Savage had met the nurse the night she was killed, but had nothing to do with the killing. He confessed, the defense contended, only after city detectives had threatened to crush his head with the 71-pound blackstone which was used to kill Miss Barthel.

DYING CHILD ASKS MOTHER TO BURY DOLL WITH HER

Camden, Nov. 21.—Physicians striving to find a way to keep life in the wasted body of little Helen Hamilton who prays that she may live to celebrate her thirteenth birthday next Monday, today abandoned the idea of blood transfusion.

They decided the operation would only hasten her death. Told of the doctor's decision today she whispered to her mother:

"There is nothing they can do to save my life. There is something you can do for me after I die, mother. I want you to let me wear my wrist watch and I want Lucy (her doll) to go with me."

SEEK TWO FAKE FIREMEN WORKING OFFICE BUILDINGS

Police are seeking two alleged fakirs working office buildings, ostensibly for the New England Fireman's Journal. Funds they gather in are supposed to be for needy and disabled firemen. They are believed to have already collected hundreds of dollars. They represent themselves to be Boston Fire Department members.

One is described as 19, six feet tall, weighing 190, light complexion, with soft brown hat and brown overcoat. The other is said to be about 37, six feet, two inches tall, weighing 220, dark complexion and with light soft hat and brown overcoat.

3 BOYS STAB SCHOOL TEACHER IN ROW OVER EXAMINATIONS

New York, Nov. 22.—Three boys were arrested today charged with having stabbed John Wechsler, a public school teacher, when he refused to discuss with them the failure of a student to pass his examinations. Wechsler, with wounds in the chest and abdomen, was said to be in a serious condition.

TRAMPLES WIFE TO DEATH

Rhode Island Man Drags Woman to Street, Stamps for Life Out

Warren, R. I., Nov. 22.—In an insane frenzy Ernest A. Fontaine, a laborer in the employ of the town, today dragged his wife, Sadie Fontane, from their home by her hair, threw her into the street and stamped her life out.

His fury spent, Fontane remained quiet until the police arrived and placed him under arrest. Mrs. Fontane was dead when physicians, hastily summoned by neighbors, arrived at the Fontane home on Ellis avenue.

The police say Fontane is mentally unbalanced and that two of his family are in insane asylums. Several years ago he was sent to jail for a brutal attack on an old man.

Chief Cronin of the local police said he had been unable to get any story out of Fontane, who sits in his cell in sullen silence. He will be examined by alienists.

Mrs. Fontane is survived by four young children, their ages ranging from five months to seven years. They are in the care of relatives.

THREE PERISH IN QUEBEC FIRE

Sherbrooke, Que., Nov. 22.—Three were killed and a fourth perhaps fatally injured in a fire today at Collinsville, when the residence of William Gendron was razed. Mrs. Gendron and two sons, aged eleven and eight, were killed. A daughter, Jizelle, aged five, was seriously burned.

Eighteen Hurt in Wreck

Parsons, Kan., Nov. 22.—Eighteen persons were hurt, three seriously, when two Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger trains crashed head on last night near Beagle, Kan.

$800,000 PAID BY STOKES TO SETTLE

New York, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—The marital affairs of William Earle Dodge Stokes, 73-year-old New York millionaire, and his pretty young wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, former Denver society belle, were today officially wiped off the calendar of American courts, forever.

Mrs. Stokes, through a signed agreement with her husband, was:

1—Granted a separation from her husband.

2—Given the interest on an $800,000 cash trust fund, to be laid to her throughout her life.
This was estimated, would produce $35,000 a year.

3—Awarded the custody of her two children, James, 9 years old and Muriel, 8 years old.

In return for this Mrs. Stokes agreed:

1—To give up her dower right—$2,333,000 of Stokes' $7,000,000 fortune to which she was entitled upon his death.

2—To refrain from contesting her husband's will should he die

$145 IN 5 FINES DOLED TO MOTORIST; WOULDN'T STOP

In the Charlestown Court today Judge Sullivan imposed five separate fines upon Harold F. Moore of East Boston for violating the automobile laws. Moore was fined $50 for operating at an excessive speed, $25 for operating so as to endanger the public, $50 for failing to stop when so ordered three times by an officer, $10 for having no tail light and $10 for not keeping to the right side of the road.

He appealed and was held in $700 bail.

Officer John S. Rice said that he saw Moore operating recklessly on Chelsea street and ordered him to stop. Moore "gave her the gas," he said.

Rice commandeered another machine and pursued him to the Chelsea bridge, overtook him and ordered him to stop. Moore only "hit it up faster." Once again Rice overtook the speeding Moore and ordered him to stop. Finally in Chelsea square Rice jumped from the running board of the pursuing car to the car operated by Moore. Moore stopped his car and ran. Rice caught him.

$50,000 BLAZE IN MERRIMACK; FIRE AUTO LOST IN FLAMES

Merrimack Nov. 22.—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed the three-story wooden building occupied by the Gelinas Wood Heel Company and James F. Pease & Company, repairers and painters of automobile bodies. The loss is placed at $50,000, with both firms partially covered by insurance.

The fire started in one of the two upper floors occupied by the heel concern and was discovered by a woman living nearby.

Two alarms were sounded and units of the Haverhill department aided local firemen.

DAYLIGHT SAVING FIGHT PLANNED BY NATIONAL GRANGE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 22.—The fight of the National Grange against daylight saving in New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania is to be carried on through an organization of State masters perfected at a session of the National Grange here today. Allen B. Cook of Niantic, Ct., was chosen the leader.

Resolutions opposing the revival of free distribution of seeds and any weakening of the national prohibition law were adopted.

AIRMEN IN CRASH FINED FOR LANDING

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 22.—It cost R. F. Conant, a former district attorney, and Hanford Warschauer, both of Milwaukee, who with an unidentified woman in an airplane, made a four-foot crash to earth near here, $10 each because they landed without a permit.

After being held all day by Sheriff Ashstrom, the men were released after paying the fines for trespassing. The woman disappeared after the crash.

DAVISON STOCK TAKES BIG DROP

New York, Nov. 22.—Sensational price movements in the stock of the Davison Chemical Company occurred today on the Stock Exchange. It dropped around 20 points, following official denial that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has signed a contract with the Davison Company for the use of its Silica Gel process. The specialist in the stock was so deluged with orders that he temporarily stopped taking them until he could straighten out his books.

SIGHTSEER ROBBED OF "PHONY" MONEY

William B. Rawe of Hubbardston met John J. Murphy of Haverhill on Hanover street while the two were seeing the sights of the great city. Hale confided to Murphy that he had a terrible tummy ache. Murphy said he "knew of a place" and Hale said "lead me to it." Murphy led Hale into an alley, bowled him over and took a plated watch, several checks and $500 in confederate money from him and Murphy fled. When Judge Dowd handed Murphy a six months' sentence in court today the prisoner murmured: "Gee! I'm glad that guy didn't have any German marks on him—I'd ha' got a year."

WAS LURED BY CASH REGISTER

James A. Carley Sorry for His Family; Stands Ready to Serve Jail Term

It was the sight of a cash register which lured Fire Chief James A. Carley of Weymouth from honor.

It was this which made him a burglar.

In a colorless, unemotional voice the Dr. Jekyl side of this mystery man of Weymouth today told the story of his Mr. Hyde existence to a reporter from the American.

Seated in his pretentious home, surrounded by fine paintings and rugs, the once honored citizen of the town told his story.

"I went into the store of M. H. Loud to see some coal they were putting in. I had none in my house, I wanted to see what kind it was" he said.

"I was alone in the store. All at once there, in front of me, I saw a cash register. I can't explain it, but it seemed to beckon to me. It was a lure I could not resist.

LURED BY REGISTER.

"It drew me. I yielded. I went towards it and pressed one of the keys. A drawer flew open. There lay loose change in the little compartments.

"I reached out and took some of it. I don't know how much. Four times since I have been back and done the same thing.

"Why? I don't know. I cannot explain it.

At times the voice of the suffering man fell low. At times it was almost inaudible. But at no time was there any interest in life apparent.

BOY TRAPPER IS FOUND DEAD; BELIEVE DEATH AN ACCIDENT

Cambridge, Vt., Nov. 22.—Dayton Lamb, the fourteen-year-old son of Alden Lamb of Fletcher, was found by his father shot through the heart. The boy left home to visit some traps and when he did not return after several hours his father went in search of him.

The boy carried a .32 calibre rifle and one of its bullets had pierced his heart, death having been instantaneous.

The shooting is considered accidental, but how it happened is not known. Dayton was one of three sons. The family lives in Fletcher, four miles from this village.

HUNT SOMERVILLE PAIR AS ELOPERS

Somerville police today sought Hazel A. Mansfield, twenty-two years old, of No. 838 Somerville avenue, Somerville. She disappeared from her home on Tuesday, the same day that George W. Invernizzi, twenty-three, of No. 23 Cedar street, Somerville, went away.

They were sweethearts. Hazel, her mother says, used to toss notes from her window to George, as he passed the Mansfield home from work. She had been forbidden to associate with him. It is believed they eloped.

The day she vanished a nurse called at her home to ask her condition.

"She's well," said her mother. "She went to work this morning."

"She was reported sick," said the nurse, "that is why I called."

Since then the girl has not been seen.

Invernizzi is a World War veteran.

STOKES MARITAL SCANDAL BANISHED FOREVER FROM COURTS

3—To withdraw her $1,000,000 slander suit against Stokes' son by a former marriage, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr.

Further provision in the signed agreement, a copy of which was filed in the New York Supreme Court today, provided:

1—Upon the death of Mrs. Stokes the $800,000 trust fund will go to her two children, half to each. In the event either child dies before the mother, the entire fund will go to the surviving child.

2—The father will have the right to visit his children, under their mother's supervision, at any time he desires. He cannot see the children alone, unless with his wife's consent.

3—All legal action, of every kind and nature, now on the dockets of the courts will be withdrawn. This includes Stokes' appeal from the dower case decision and his appeal from the recent verdict of a jury, which denied him a divorce.

"This agreement has not, in any way, been based upon a stipulation that the criminal charges in Chicago are to be dropped," Samuel Untermyer, chief of Mrs. Stokes counsel, said in court today.

Despite this, it was understood an effort was to be made to have the indictment dismissed, on the ground that the Stokes case has been a public scandal for five years and that to eliminate it from the American courts in every form would be to the public interest.

Instantly the agreement was signed and Justice Wasservogel's decision announced, the court was showered with congratulations.

"This is the greatest public service of any court to the American people in many a day," Isador Galonburg attorney for Stokes, said in agreeing to the settlement.

"The Stokes case for five years has been a public scandal. Justice Wasservogel has the public's thanks for ending it for all time."

Both Stokes and Mrs. Stokes were in court. Both thanked Justice Wasservogel.

Mrs. Stokes said she would leave for her home in Denver on Monday.

half the town of Weymouth and not go broke.

"I have brought disgrace on my family. For myself I wouldn't care. I want to go to jail and pay, but they will have to suffer."

In another room was a heartbroken wife—a wife who had never known of the dual personality of her erring husband.

"I cannot understand it," concluded Carley. "I am just a common thief and I don't know why, except that it was an irresistible impulse."

Carley was sitting in his parlor when seen by the reporter. He was clad in ordinary clothing, a faded blue shirt, evidently from much washing. His coat was off and he wore suspenders. All around him was luxury and the furnishings of wealth.

Carley began his amazing story in apathy. He ended it the same way.

As he bade the reporter good-by tears stood in his eyes—Dr. Jekyll tears for the sins of Mr. Hyde.

Selectmen were to meet today to demand the resignation of Chief Carley unless that resignation is forthcoming before the selectmen meet.

Chief Carley was caught in the hardware store of M. R. Loud at Columbian square, south Weymouth, by Patrolman Ambrose Boyle. The chief had taken $2.60 from the store till.

Carley has a comfortable home, a limousine and a wife and two grown daughters, to whom his arrest is a social tragedy. Mrs. Carley and her daughters are planning to leave Weymouth as a result of the episode.

Wherever people gather in Weymouth the question, "Why did he do it?" is being asked and remains unanswered.

McMAHON, SHOT BY HUSBAND OF SISTER, DEAD

John McMahon, who was shot by his brother-in-law, Frederick W. Dow, on the doorstep of the latter's home at No. 33 Houghton street, Dorchester, died at the City Hospital.

Before his death he had shaken hands with Dow at the hospital and had forgiven him for the shooting.

Mrs. Mary McMahon, estranged wife of McMahon, who had become reconciled to him after the shooting, was at the bedside of the dying man.

A charge of murder will probably be placed against Dow, who surrendered to the police and confessed to the shooting. He was charged with assault with intent to kill.

McMahon was forty-two years old and lived with his wife at No. 97 Wales avenue, Dorchester. They separated a week ago after a quarrel and McMahon went to live at the home of Mrs. Dow, who is his sister. Sunday McMahon was out and returned later. All were asleep in the house and when he knocked on the door Dow came down and refused to let him enter, because, he told the police, of his "condition." During the fight that followed, McMahon was shot.

SCORE "INFLUENCE" IN CARE OF WOUNDED

Washington, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.) — A universal complaint against the use of political pressure in the care of disabled soldiers featured a dozen reports filed today with the Senate investigating committee by volunteer commissions which investigated affairs of the Veterans' Bureau in every State.

The reports, scoring the use of this political influence, described conditions as "a disgrace," "betrayal of trust" and a "curse to the Veterans' Bureau." These commissions were composed of prominent lawyers, physicians and business men in each State, whose opinion and services were sought.

E. A. SMITH, FORMER B. & M. OFFICIAL, DIES

Edgar A. Smith, who retired in 1913 as superintendent of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad after forty-seven years' service, died today at his home, No. 45 Cedar street, Somerville. He was born in New Salem in 1840 and went to work for the Fitchburg railroad in 1866.

He lived in Somerville for thirty-eight years, and served in the board of aldermen three years. He leaves two sons, Charles H. Smith of Somerville and Hubbard V. Smith of New York City.

APP UNKNOWN TO GIRL WHEN FIRST HELD

Phoebe Dotten, fourteen-year-old Winchester High School girl, and daughter of Walter Dotten, Winchester selectman, admitted in Middlesex Superior Court at the trial of William F. App of Woburn, who is charged with attacking her, that she had at first failed to identify App as her attacker, but that she later changed her mind.

App, testimony by the girl and Police Chief MacIntosh brought out, was at first released when the girl upon being brought face to face with him said he was not the man, but was later rearrested when the girl on her homeward journey from the police station suddenly satisfied herself that App was the attacker.

The girl admitted that she did not get a good look at her attacker, but declared she was certain App was the man when she recollected the expression on the face of the attacker. Mrs. Grace Dotten, the girl's mother, broke down and wept while testifying and was assisted from the stand. She told of having been called to the home of a neighbor on the night of the attack and there finding her daughter in a serious condition.

STUDENT ARRESTED AS "GLAND BANDIT"

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Earl English, University of Chicago sophomore, was taken into custody in connection with the mutilation of his cousin, Charles Ream, a taxicab driver believed to be a victim of a gland robbery.

Later, the police reported that revenge prompted the act.

Ream told of being taken into an automobile by two men, being struck over the head and drugged, and then left dazed in the outskirts of the city.

While police would give no information of the statement English is said to have made, his sister and another woman roomer in the English home were called by police.

U. S. CEMETERIES IN EUROPE APPROVED

Washington, Nov. 22.—An official report on the condition of American military cemeteries in Europe, submitted by Major H. L. Green, shows that "everything is going on most satisfactorily" in improvement and construction in the various cemeteries overseas. Major Green says the improvements is be made in the appearance of the sight cemeteries will cost $1,000,000 and adds that a final concentration of the 30,500 bodies of the soldier dead has been completed.

HUNDREDS ARE KILLED IN GERMANY

A mob of half-grown men, armed with spiked clubs, began rioting at Hagen in Prussian Westphalia. They marched through the streets shouting: "Hoch Rosa Luxemburg." (Rosa Luxemburg was the ringleader of the women Communists in Germany.) Stores were looted and much property destroyed.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—Chancellor Stresemann told the Reichstag today that his government would relinquish office if necessary, and he hoped the Reichstag would make up its mind quickly that he might know whether he should continue.

He declared Germany's internal position hopeless, without the slightest prospect of improvement.

"Either Bolshevism or Fascism would mean civil war in Germany," he declared.

The Communist Deputy Herr Remmele, whose fillbuster Tuesday broke up the Reichstag meeting, was beaten by the police when he attempted to enter today.

France Asks World to Approve "Sacrifice"

Paris, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—The cabinet today approved Premier Poincare's policy regarding the new notes to Germany.

Then this statement was issued at the French foreign office:

"France hopes that foreign powers will appreciate France's sacrifices in allowing the return to Germany of the commander of the German army in the Battle of Verdun which cost France five hundred thousand dead. The future will demonstrate if the allied views are best."

80,000 Rhinelanders to Resume Work

Dusseldorf, Nov. 22.—The agreement recently signed between representatives of the Rhineland dye industry and the inter-allied high commission at Coblenz involved 50,000 workmen.

The dye plants, it is stated, agreed to deliver dyes to the Allies on reparation account.

Other agreements reached by the commission were with shoe manufacturing plants employing 30,000

Saxon Premier Sold Pardons to 70,000

Berlin, Nov. 22.—From Prime Minister to prison—that is the career of Dr. Zeigner, whose Socialist-Communist government Chancellor Stresemann recently removed by use of the military force of the Reichswehr in Saxony.

He denied reports in the German press that the government had been approached by American financiers and said he had no information of international action.

Zeigner was arrested at his villa in Dresden in connection with accusations that he has sold pardons in a wholesale manner while Minister of Justice. Zeigner is alleged to have pardoned 70,000 prisoners during his term of office.

9 KILLED, 7 MISSING; 5 BOILERS EXPLODE

New Iberia, La., Nov. 22.—A terrific boiler explosion razed the Vida Sugar Refinery at Loreauvill, ten miles east of here, killing at least nine persons and injuring fifteen others, five of them probably fatally. Three employes are missing and it is feared they are buried under the debris. The plant was completely wrecked, causing an estimated loss of $100,000.

Those killed were Sidney Broussard, nephew of Senator Edwin S. Broussard, manager of the refinery; Oscar Broussard, superintendent and two white and five negro employes.

The blast came without warning when one of the five boilers which had been steamed up to start the sugar grinding season 1st go. A negro standing 500 yards away was beheaded when he was struck by a piece of the boiler, and a mule a quarter of a mile distant was killed in the same manner.

BOY, ROLLING HOOP, BADLY HURT BY AUTO

Samuel Psianglanos, nine years old, No. 179 Summer street, Lynn, received a fractured skull when run down on South Common street by an automobile owned by Bertram L. Wagner of Salem.

The lad was rolling a hoop. Wagner took him to the Lynn Hospital. His name is on the danger list.

AGED RELATIVE OF WHITTIER HELD UP

Danvers, Nov. 22.—Clarence Whittier, sixty years old, of Essex street, this city, a grandson of John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet, was beaten unconscious by a masked robber, who mistook him for Tax Collector Frank Hayes, seventy-five years old.

Whittier, employed as a janitor in the city hall, was looking up the building and was about to leave when, in the front corridor a masked man stepped from a telephone booth and commanded him to throw up his hands.

Whittier struggled with the robber, and in the course of a fight, was beaten into insensibility with the butt of a revolver.

When he regained consciousness, he went to the telephone to call the police, but found the wires had been cut. Meanwhile, the robber had escaped.

Dr. Charles W. Deering treated a cut on Whittier's scalp and bandaged a sprained arm.

WALTER HAMPDEN IS HURT IN STAGE FALL

New York, Nov. 22.—Walter Hampden, the tragedian, concluded the two last acts of Cyrano de Bergerac at the National Theatre with one or more bones in his foot broken. The actor, in the scene where Cyrano falls from the moon into a tree, was precipitated ten feet to the stage when the gutta percha limb broke under his weight. The curtain was rung down and the injured foot bound up with surgeon's tape, after which the show continued. Hampden will be laid up for two weeks, at least, his physicians say.

NOW IS the time to "do your Christmas shopping early." It won't be really early after this. Save yourself time, worry, annoyance. Show consideration for overworked employes and get now what you cannot get later, the first choice of all that the stores have to offer.

This means women, especially, they are considerate.

LIVING UP to the prediction made in this column when cotton was selling around twenty-six cents, the price yesterday went above thirty-five cents, "all months" touching new high prices. However, don't gamble.

THE Methodist Episcopal Board of Public Morals has things to say about the stage in New York. Young ladies, it seems, many at a time, "troop down to the footlights naked from the waist up, and virtually naked from the waist down—don't call it nude, just plain naked," so says the Board.

MUCH SEEMS to depend on what people are doing, and why, and where. In ancient Greece young girls ran in the races entirely naked without hurting anybody's morals. Their intentions were good. That makes all the difference.

YOUNG LADIES of Chicago's "co-ed" university decide that "all men are talkers" and are all dull. Some, with dullness, combine seriousness, others froth, others triviality, but all are dull.

Nothing new in that truthful statement. The miracle is, that women have endured men's dullness, pretending to be interested in their conversation, for so many centuries, from dull modern man back to Adam. He must have had nothing at all to say, being so freshly made and having no gossip to bring home to his wife. You do not wonder that, in the despair of boredom, she talked to the snake.

GEORGE BAKER, one of the country's four richest men—Mellon, Rockefeller and Ford are the other three—comes from Europe cheerful, saying: "We are going to have prosperity here and Europe's troubles can't prevent it."

About getting our debts from Europe he is quoted as saying: "You can't press blood out of a turnip." That probably describes our chances of getting the chests of money we lent to Europe. Nobody will mourn over that if we will attend to our own business from now on.

A FEW YEARS ago, even Ford wouldn't have thought that possible. He will talk, through the air, from his WWJ station at Dearborn, using his 360-metre wave, across a thousand miles of this continent, three thousand miles of the Atlantic Ocean, to men and women, "listening in" in England.

That miracle would have astounded those living when the Old Testament was written.

Let's hope that, in a few thousand years, with every human being able to talk at will with any other on earth, men will decide to stop murdering each other, and follow Joseph Pulitzer's advice: "Don't fight, advertise."

IN NEW YORK'S Madison Square Garden on Tuesday night, thousands of white men and women yelled, cursed, and enjoyed themselves while two negroes, Sikl and Norfolk, fought, their faces and chests streaming with blood.

Five hundred years hence, when historians ask what civilization was in the biggest city in the biggest country of the world, in 1923, that picture of two bleeding negroes, delighting the souls of five thousand white men and women, will answer them.

HERE IS something to give the shivers to our best minds. England is seriously discussing a levy on capital, which means solving England's financial situation by simply taking a large part of everybody's fortune, not income, but actual capital, property of all kinds. Only five thousand pounds would be exempt. From a man with a million pounds, six hundred thousand pounds would be taken. Imagine that, here, where we don't even pretend to collect income tax on the great fortunes.

Kissed? She Won't Say Whether She Has or Hasn't

MISS WINIFRED C. I. BLAIR

"MISS CANADA" PAYS BOSTON A VISIT

Have you ever been kissed?

Some girls would answer with an indignant "Certainly," while others would answer with equal indignation, "Certainly not!"

Miss Winifred C. I. Blair of St. John, New Brunswick, the premier beauty of all Canada, who won the title "Miss Canada" at the last Montreal Winter Carnival, visiting Boston did neither.

Asked if the report that she had never been kissed were true, Miss Blair answered:

"Well, I wouldn't say it's true, and I won't say it isn't true."

A word about Miss Blair. She is beautiful—the most competent judges in Canada have said so.

Her private fortune is reputed to amount to half a million dollars.

NOT ENGAGED.

She is not engaged, and never has been.

Movies are no temptation to her—she would rather live in St. John than anywhere else in the world.

This charming model of dignified beauty came to Boston with Sir Robert Borden, ex-premier of the Dominion, and other Canadian guests to attend a banquet in the Copley-Plaza.

Miss Blair is tall. She has the perfect poise of high breeding and of the well-trained athlete. Her bearing is queenly; her figure is of exceptional beauty and symmetry.

SEES "COMEBACK" BY LLOYD GEORGE

New York, Nov. 22.—Lord Leverhulme, head of Lever Brothers' world-wide soap factory system, declared here today that Lloyd George is "coming back." The soap magnate did not predict his restoration to power in the coming British elections, but declared that it was only a question of time. He denounced Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's protective tariff program as a quack remedy for England's financial troubles.

CEMENT FIRM PLANS $5,000,000 "AD" DRIVE

New York, Nov. 22.—More than $5,000,000 will be spent by the Portland Cement Association in 1924 in its advertising campaign to improve and extend the utilization of concrete.

At the convention of the organization just closed newspapers were pronounced the best educational mediums by the business committee of the association and for that reason more newspapers will be added to the 6000 in which the present year's campaign was conducted.

BORDEN PLEADS FOR LEAGUE SUPPORT

Declaring that his faith in the League of Nations is as strong today as it ever was, Sir Robert Laird Borden, former Premier of Canada, appealed to members of the Canadian Club for their moral support of the treaty in a speech delivered at the annual banquet and ladies' night of the Canadian Club of Boston.

He declared that even if the league had accomplished no concrete result since its inception and was merely an effective means of calling together the nations of the world at the time of a great crisis, such as that of 1914, its existence would be justified.

He asserted, however, that the league has already done more to

Among the notable guests and speakers were Governor Channing H. Cox, Consul-General Edward F. Gray, Mayor James M. Curley, Mrs. Cox. Edward F. Gray.

Judge Louis S. Cox, Judge Frederick J. McLeod and Miss Winifred C. Blair, who was selected as the most beautiful girl in Canada. President P. R. Basley of the Canadian Club presided.

MANIAC BOMBS 8TH HOUSE IN TOLEDO

Toledo, O., Nov. 22.—Scornful of efforts of police details of plain-clothes men and police to apprehend him, Toledo's bomber was still at large today, while horrified residents of the West End fearfully discuss his devastating operations. Police say the bombs are being planted by a maniac.

KOREANS BURNED ALIVE

U. S. Captain Tells of 250 Put to Death by Japs During Earthquake

Washington, Nov. 22.—Protest was filed with Secretary Hughes today, by the Friends of Korea in America, against what the society asserted was the massacre of some 500 Koreans and the imprisonment of 15,000 others during the recent earthquake and fire in Japan.

Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, president of the society, who signed the protest, declared an eye-witness whom he named as "Captain Hedstrom, assistant dock superintendent at Yokohama, an American citizen," saw 250 Koreans "bound hand and foot in groups of five, placed on an old junk, covered with oil and burned alive."

Dr. Tomkins also says:

"Another American citizen, W. H. Stevens, September 4 hired an automobile to take himself, his wife, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Wainwright, and George Ross of New York to Nikko. The automobile was stopped by Japanese soldiers and Mr. Stevens and his party were compelled to witness the preparation for the execution of eight Koreans, who were to be shot. The soldiers apparently enjoying the horror of the party, instead of shooting the Koreans, bayoneted them.

"The mutilated bodies were then thrown into the highway and the party was forced at pistol point to drive the automobile over the dead bodies and were threatened a similar fate to that of the Koreans if they disobeyed."

LAW STUDENTS ARE ROBBED

Dean Homer Albers of Boston University Law School appeared in Municipal Court today and said student of the school and other institutions in the vicinity had long suffered from loss of clothing and other articles by sneak thieves.

George Vino, a Howard street cobbler, was on trial for receiving a coat stolen from Timothy Mulcahy a student at the law school. Vino was sentenced to six months in jail.

WOMAN SLASHED WITH RAZOR DIES

New Bedford, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Matilda Pumpus, 56 years old, is dead in St. Luke's Hospital today as a result of a number of razor slashes about her throat and body.

The woman said she had been attacked in her home by an unidentified man. Police are inclined to doubt her story.

DREAMWOLD ESTATE IS SOLD FOR $100,000

Announcement of the sale of Thomas W. Lawson's estate, Dreamwold, reported in the American several days ago, has been officially made. The price paid for the estate once valued at $2,000,000, was barely over $100,000. The estate includes forty-two acres of land and Dreamwold Hall. The Nest, where Lawson wrote his book, "Friday, the 13th," and a laundry building.

T. W. Lawson

It was sold to the Dreamwold Manor, Inc., of which Charles Cruft, of Brookline, is president; Philip C. Hill of Richardson, Hill & Co., No. 50 Congress street, is treasurer, and L. C. Prior, president and managing director of the Bruns wick and Lenox Hotels, is a director. The property will be used as a motor inn and club, to be known as Dreamwold Manor. It will be opened April 15.

MOTHERS VICTIMS OF 'BUTCHER'

Bogus Doctor Bungles Many Childbirth Cases; Police Seeking Fugitive

Hartford, Nov. 22.—"Dr." George E. Sutcliffe, the "butcher doctor" who killed a war veteran with four cans of ether, also bungled in obstetrics, it was revealed in the state probe of the diploma "mills" today.

A dozen mothers shivered at the revelation that Sutcliffe was not a bonafide medico. He is a "diploma mill" graduate of a college in Missouri.

They had gone through the "valley of the shadow" to bring a new mite into the world and as they were launched in the darkest part their lives lay in the hands of Sutcliffe, the quack. He was their attending physician.

He butchered Albert C. Hoody, overseas vet" when he tried to ether-ize him to amputate a finger. He was cutting away when Hoody lay dead, his wife widowed, his curly haired baby fatherless. Yet Sutcliffe manager to engineer a dozen obstetric cases, in bungling fashion with no mortality loss.

POLICE HUNT DOCTOR

Today deputy sheriffs in a motor car hunted him in Albany, N. Y., where he fled after making a partial confession to authorities. He will be tried on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Hoody.

In that connection also Dr. Edwin M. Ripley, medical examiner of Farmington, the county wherein Hoody's Unionville "butcher shop" was located, finds himself kicked out of office. He failed to hold an autopsy or take cognition of Hoody's sudden end in any manner whatsoever.

Testifying before the grand jury, Dr. Ripley said he believed Sutcliffe a bonafide physician and the death due to an accident in applying the anaesthetic. But it was Ripley's practice Sutcliffe bought on the installment plan.

Sutcliffe, who was the friend of dope fiends, writing hundreds of prescriptions for narcotics, will be quizzed about deaths of other patients when arrested.

Here are some who died:

Mary G. Saunders, four years old, chills.

Mrs. Emerette C. Belding, eighty-two years old, died of myocarditis, January 16, 1923.

Case Ellis, farmer, no age given, died of dilation of the heart and bronchitis, January 20, 1923.

Mrs. Mary A. James, seventy-three, died of pneumonia, March 3, 1923.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wetherby, sixty-eight, died of cerebral hemorrhage, March 29, 1923.

Albert C. Hoody, aged twenty-nine, "died from anaesthesia fumes and crushed finger," May 22, 1923, and the causes ascribed by Sutcliffe, who signed the death certificate were exactly as quoted.

Mrs. Maude J. Dorman, aged fifty, died of brain trouble, June 28, 1923.

BUNGLED BIRTHS

Sutcliffe always carried an imposing array of surgical instruments and spread them carefully about the sick chamber, but was unversed in their use. He resorted mostly to his violet tube and electric machine to ease patients with the complexities of his calling.

Dr. George H. Boucher, formerly of Boston, who suddenly left his practice in Bristol, following exposé of the methods of the Connecticut Eclectic Medical Association which

BIG SURPLUS OF TURKEY FAILS TO CUT PRICE

In spite of reports from the Department of Agriculture at Washington that turkeys are ready in great numbers for the annual Thanksgiving sacrifice, a survey of market conditions in Boston shows that the bird will cost diners at the rate of 65 to 65 cents per pound.

Government figures show a surplus of 5,000,000 in storage from last year, an exceptional supply from Texas and a large one from Maryland and Virginia, while they are being raised in large numbers for the first time in many Northern sections.

1 10-pound turkey	$6.50
2 quarts cranberries	.20
4 pounds sweet potatoes	.25
5 pounds white potatoes	.15
4 pounds parsnips	.20
2 pounds spinach	.30
2 bunches celery	.30
5 pounds pumpkin	.50
Apples, grapes	.70
1 gallon cider	.40
Nuts, mixed	.30

NEW FIGHT TO SAVE CRAIG FROM PRISON

New York, Nov. 22.—Lawyers are busily engaged on a plan whereby they hope to save Comptroller Charles L. Craig from the sixty-day sentence for contempt, given by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer and affirmed by the United States Supreme Court. Attorneys Charles L. Craig said the plan might result in the reopening of the case in which Mr. Craig was sentenced, but that details would not be made known until a definite decision was reached.

MRS. FURNESS TO REOPEN HER DIVORCE FIGHT

New York, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Elizabeth Fae Furness, divorced last March by her British husband, Thomas Cunar Stephenson Furness, cousin of the wealthy shipping firm of Furness, Withy & Co., has returned to America with bitterness in her heart, a slim pocketbook and no illusions.

The pretty American woman, former motion picture actress, whose name was cabled around the world during the sensational trial of her husband's suit for divorce in London in 1922, slipped unobtrusively into New York and she has secluded herself in a tiny apartment in West 72nd street and thought over the past.

She has determined to reopen the divorce case in an American court, where justice, which, she asserts, was distorted by prejudices in the London courts, will be given her.

"The face of the trial and the accounts as presented in the American newspapers," she said wearily, "were as different as chalk and cheese."

As Mrs. Tom Furness, mistress of the flat at Mayfair, with its staff of twenty-six servants, she was the life of gay parties.

"My butler lived more luxuriously in Mayfair. . . ."

The divorce decree awarded the Englishman, who married Fae Marx in New York at the Church of the Ascension in 1919, to accuse her of being too friendly with Maurice Mouvet, famous dancer, five years later, becomes final this month.

ACCUSED OF LOOTING TWO WOMEN'S HOMES

Charged with breaking into the suites of Ruth Washington and Lila White at No. 82 William street, Roxbury, George Armstead, colored, of Wellington street, South End, was today arraigned before Judge Ahern in Roxbury Court. It is claimed he got loot to the value of $600. Police say he has a record.

FIRST WIFE SOUGHT IN NEW YORK

Charge Former Vets' Bureau Head Wed Twice Without Getting a Divorce

Washington, Nov. 22.—Evidence purporting to show that Colonel Charles R. Forbes was twice married, but neglected to obtain a legal separation from his first wife before marrying the second, is to be sent to the Attorney-General of the United States for investigation by the Senatorial Committee which has been investigating the Veterans' Bureau scandals.

John O'Ryan, the committee chief counsel, admitted today that such evidence is believed to be in existence. The committee prevents him from making the evidence public, he said. He added that it will go along with the other evidence of the committee to the Attorney General.

O'Ryan said the committee has been searching for the "first wife." She was believed to be in New York. Efforts to locate her if such a person exists have been unavailing.

Colonel Forbes' known wife recently obtained a divorce from him in Seattle.

Criminal action against all persons involved in the graft, bribery and conspiracy charges growing out of the Forbes case is now planned by the Department of Justice.

Examination of the committee's evidence, it was stated, has convinced the department that the matter is now one for the courts. Prosecuting officers have retained Attorney General Daugherty that arrests be ordered immediately, based on the charges before the committee, to be followed instead of preceded by grand jury action.

Mrs. Katherine Tulidge Mortimer, wife of Elias H. Mortimer, Forbes' chief accuser, has charged that her husband frequently has otherwise mistreated her, it was revealed today.

Mrs. Mortimer also accused her husband of repeated drunkenness and other conduct embarrasing to her. She emphatically denied any improper conduct at any time between her and Forbes or that there was any but friendly relations and friendship that could be open to criticism.

These accusations and denials are contained in the sworn statement by Mrs. Mortimer when she was secretly examined by the committee. This statement has never been made public nor has it as yet gone into the offical record of the investigation.

Mortimer declared at his last appearance before the committee that the compelling motive that prompted her motion picture actress, whose name was cabled around the world during the sensational trial of her husband's suit for divorce in London in 1922, slipped unobtrusively into New York and she has secluded herself in a tiny apartment in West 72nd street and thought over the past.

GIRL WEDS MAN SERVING TERM IN SALEM JAIL

Salem, Nov. 22.—A romance that sprang up six months ago in a Providence hospital, where the bride was a student nurse and the bridegroom was a patient, culminated without bridesmaids or flower girls, in the chapel of the House of Correction when Victor Valches, twenty-six years old, an inmate, and nineteen-year-old Ruth Amato of Providence were married.

Miss Amato, who at present is living at No. 19 Orchard street, Lawrence, arrived at the prison unexpectedly with a marriage license. Until consent was received from the parents of the girl from Providence Sheriff Arthur G. Wells would not permit the ceremony.

The Rev. Pietro Piemonte, pastor of the local Italian Mission, was called to the chapel to officiate and Edward F. Carlin, deputy keeper, and Albert Soper, turnkey, were witnesses.

Honeymoon was out of question, as Valches, who has already served four months for obtaining money under false pretenses, will yet serve six months more on the same sentence.

Girl Awarded $2,500 For Pint Of Blood

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—A jury today awarded Miss Leona P. Standiford $2,500 for a pint of blood she gave in an unsuccessful effort to save the life of Mrs. C. P. Hilliard, of Santa Rosa, Calif. Although the patient promised she would be well paid, Miss Standiford said, Mr. Hilliard had given her only $5. The blood she lost made her ill, and she spent $500 for medical treatment, Miss Standiford testified.

Mary Minot Cabot the Bride Today of G. R. Martin, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE will be a craning of Boston's most aristocratic necks—even the most aristocratic of necks are craned on special occasions—when popular Mary Minot Cabot walks up the aisle of St. Paul's Cathedral at 1 o'clock today.

When today's bride leaves the fashionable house of worship she will be Mrs. George Rainsford Martin, thereby adding one more to the long list of Boston-New York alliances. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mulford Martin of Rye, N. Y.

The bride, who is a petite blonde, and better known to her intimate as Polly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Cabot of Marlboro street. She made her debut two seasons ago and is a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club.

Miss Gwendolyn Hart of Beacon street is to be maid of honor, the other attendants including the Misses Carolyn Ranlet and Marcia Davis, as well as Mrs. Jerome Crosby Greene (Mary C. Cram) and Mrs. James W. Angell (Jane Grew), at whose wedding last month Polly Cabot was of the bridesmaids group.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin are to make their home out Cambridge way, where so many younger marrieds are establishing their Lares and Penates.

AN outstanding bud of the '23-'24 crop is Miss Emily Sears, attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears, who are giving a dance for her this evening at their Beacon street home.

Miss Sears, a tall, slender blonde, spent the Summer with her family on the North Shore, where a number of entertainments, given in her honor, added much to the shore's festivities.

MISS CHARLOTTE MOSELEY has marshalled together a group of debs and some of the oldergirls to act as waitresses at the luncheon being held today at the Hotel Vendome. The affair is in aid of St. Monica's Home.

In the group of dainty tray-wielders will be Miss Harriet Royce of Dedham, whose engagement to Sidney B. Hosmer was recently announced. Miss Royce made her debut last Winter.

A few of the other waitresses include the Misses Carryl Sargent, Isabel Thorndike, Polly Webster, Penelope and Margaret Curtis, Eleanora Winslow and Elizabeth Stackpole.

ANOTHER event on the bud cards today is the luncheon and bridge which Mrs. Jonathan Brown, Jr., of Bay State road is giving today at the Algonquin Club in honor of two debutantes of the season, the Misses Polly Webster and Mary Louise Butterfield. Polly Webster made her bow to society at a reception which her parents gave for her last week at their Dartmouth street home.

licensed him, has gone to New York to accept a hospital berth.

Boucher, startled by developments, left a chain of patients without warning. He admitted in a letter to Dr. Desmarais that he had tried to obtain a "sick certificate" from medical friends in Lynn, but that they refused to issue it.

One physician told Boucher, "quackery has never been in my line." Boucher rented a suite of offices from Dr. Desmarais in Bristol. He vanished November 12.

FEARED JURY EXPOSE

Dr. Desmarais says Boucher told him he had received a diploma from Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons in Cambridge, and that he passed the Connecticut Eclectic board of examinations with a mark of 98 per cent., which Desmarais considered high.

Dr. Desmarais says Boucher feared the expose might result in loss of his eclectic license and this dread drove him from Bristol. Boucher was slightly injured in an automobile accident in Brookfield, while motoring to Boston and this may account for his attempt to get a "sick certificate."

Owner of Hub "Diploma Mill" Served Jail Term

Back in 1917 a "diploma mill" was grinding away in Boston doing a remarkable business.

At the head of it was "Dr." Frank J. Kenney, now "practicing" in Providence. His name has cropped up in the investigation of the "butcher quacks" by a special grand jury in Hartford, Ct.

Kenney said he was dean of the Eastern University of Medicine of Baltimore, an institution unrecognized in medical circles. Kenney sold hundreds of diplomas at prices ranging from $100 to $700. Then he fled to Philadelphia and posed as a nerve specialist.

He was arrested on a larceny charge and brought back to Boston. He was given six months in the House of Correction. It was proved that he sold the following "mill" diplomas:

Justin C. Tay for $300; Ferris Willard Ferris, $300; Raymond A. Cooney, $200; George J. Vallender, two at $250 and $650; Abraham J. Priedman, $350, and Ralph Accone, $250.

Associated with him was John Hoffman, No. 339 Charles street, a druggist. He was found guilty of complicity, but his case was placed on file.

OUR POLICY
Deferred Payments on Budget Plan

We maintain at all times the high standard of Blue Ribbon Furniture. Our cash prices are the lowest at which Good Furniture can be sold and all prices are marked in plain figures.

No furniture house can sell on credit at cash prices. However, in connection with our cash business, we are in position to finance Deferred Payments on the Budget Plan—thereby making it possible for many lovers of good homes to have furniture of better quality than otherwise they could afford to buy.

Under this plan we give twelve months' credit to customers who can make the required monthly payments. They can buy at regular Cash Prices, plus a small charge for the accommodation. THE GIVING OF CREDIT, AS OUTLINED, IS A STRAIGHT-FORWARD BUSINESS PROPOSITION, BASED ON PRINCIPLES WHICH SHOULD GOVERN ALL BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS

JUDGE LASHES DR. COOK AS "ANANIAS"

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 22.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who first gained fame by his denied claims of discovery of the North Pole, paces a cell in the Tarrant County jail today under sentence of fourteen years and eight months in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and a fine of $12,000, and with what was said to have the most stinging denunciation ever heard in a Texas courtroom ringing in his ears.

Dr. Fred A. Cook. Photo by International News Reel.

With what was termed by hearers a well-defined sneer in the court's voice, "So you can say nothing?" was hurled at the dejected figure which stood in compliance with Judge Killitt's demand, "Stand up, Cook," the usual remark to prisoners about to be sentenced and also an invitation to them to give reasons why sentence should not be imposed.

REPLACES "ANANIAS."

"You have come to the point where your peculiar personality fails you," Judge Killitts accused as Dr. Cook stood leaning against the clerk's desk, his eyes sighted on the floor.

Robbing of widows and orphans, the aged and the destitute was charged against the downcast explorer-promoter.

"Cook, you have no decency at all? Are you not haunted at night by those notable figures you have robbed? How can you sleep," continued the judge.

"The twentieth century should be proud of Dr. Cook. History gave us Ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten, but we still have Dr. Cook.

"Cook, this deal of yours is so damnably rotten that it seems to me that your attorneys must have been forced to hold their handkerchiefs to their noses to have represented you.

WOULD KEEP HIM JAILED.

"The way I feel about it, I wish I were not so circumscribed. You should not be allowed to run at large at all.

"I know you have ill gotten gains put away. Your counsel came to me and asked what your bond would be. I set it too low. They said you could not make it, but it is a sheer waste of sense to say you can't. They must be under the spell of your peculiar personality."

HUGE FLOOD OF GERMAN TOYS POURING IN

While Boston children are enjoying German toys this Christmas, it may be well remembered that German children are enjoying in a different way the American bank notes which pay for the toys.

Facts and figures show this year's shipment of German toys to America exceeds both in volume and value those of the pre-war days when Germany was recognized as toy headquarters for the world.

It is reported by shipping men that nearly every vessel arriving from German ports for weeks has carried German toys as an important part of her cargo list.

Bankers say German manufacturers no longer desire paper marks. Last year American buyers went into the foreign exchange market and bought paper marks for the German manufacturers.

This year German manufacturers are asking their pay in American dollars or in merchandise. The same procedure, it was said, is being followed with England and Holland, and by receiving pay in the terms of currency of the buying countries German manufacturers are building up reserves outside of Germany.

German manufacturers' wage and material bills, on the other hand, are being paid partly in paper marks. But recently German workmen have demanded their pay in terms of other currencies, the American dollar preferred, and as a result the German paper mark has suffered practical repudiation.

Despite the collapse of the currency, Germany has built up its toy business to imposing totals. Figures furnished by the United States Department of Commerce showed that Germany began to manufacture toys immediately after the armistice. From November 11 to the end of the Christmas season Germany shipped into the United States toys valued at $68,233.

In the next three years this figure was increased to $451,288 in 1919, to $1,051,367 in 1920, to $1,093,003 in 1921, which was a year of business depression in this country.

REVOLT QUELLED IN PHILIPPINES

Manila, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—The Filipino Constabulary, under Major Fort, has broken up the rebellious Moros, under Datu Santiago, after several days' pursuit in Mindanao Province.

Three Constabulary men are known to have been killed, and the losses of the Moros have been heavy.

BROTHERS GET $10,000; ROBBERS TAKE IT AWAY

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22.—Russell and Clyde Whittaker, brothers, obtained $10,000 cash has their shares of their grandfather's estate and within a few hours it had passed to the possession of highwaymen. As the brothers were returning to Clyde's house after ineffectual real estate bargaining, the armed robbers pointed pistols at them and took their legacy.

It developed that the brothers had visited a billiard parlor enroute home, and police believe the robbers overheard the heirs discussing their good fortune.

Mexico City.—The finance department has issued a statement assuring the public that, notwithstanding pessimistic reports, the government, by the end of 1924, will have paid the full 30,000,000 pesos instalment due on the foreign debt.

2 OF 80 HAVE PERFECT FEET, ONE IS A CHINESE GIRL

Where are the traditions of yesteryears?

Also the fairy tales?

The most anguishing tales were told of how the poor Chinese ladies' feet were stuffed into shoes too small from the time they could walk, so they'd have small feet. So harrowing were the schoolroom details that many a redhead youth eligible for a fullback's job found himself sobbing.

Now comes Dr. Frank E. Hayden addressing the Massachusetts Chiropody Association and says that out of eighty girls at Wellesley given foot examinations only two had perfect feet.

And one of them, says he, was a Chinese girl.

ALL PORTS FREE IN NEW TREATY

Geneva, Nov. 22.—Freedom of access to maritime ports and equitable treatment for the commerce of all contracting nations are the basic principles of the draft convention on the international regime of maritime ports which is now under discussion at the international conference on transit.

The convention applies exclusively to seaports normally used for maritime commercial shipping, naval and private ports not being included. It ensures freedom of access to nationals, property and flags of all contracting States and, as regards the use of the ports, ensures equality of treatment, especially in respect of berthing, loading and unloading facilities, dues and taxes.

BALL PLAYER IS INDICTED FOR FLOGGING

Marietta, Ga., Nov. 22 (Universal Service).—Kellar Hasty, a star pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, and four other men were arrested in connection with the abduction of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe, twenty-six-year-old widow, and S. H. Norton, Atlanta salesman, by a masked band near here Friday night.

All were indicted by the grand jury. A sixth man indicted has not yet been located. Those under arrest include two brothers of Hasty, and Tom Black and Joe Bramlett of Smyrna, where the outrage took place. The indictments charge assault and battery and rioting.

First intimation of the affair came when Mrs. Holcombe, scarred and bandaged, appeared before the grand jury to tell her story. She said that Norton was escorting her home when two automobiles loaded with masked men stopped them.

The couple were carried to a wooded spot about a mile away, according to her story, and severely thrashed with a big strap. Norton collapsed after being whipped first, she said, and the men turned on her. After unmercifully beating them both, they were carried to her home and "dumped out on the road." Neighbors found them and carried the semi-conscious woman to her home, while Norton was placed in a car and carried to Atlanta.

The Hasty brothers already have claimed an alibi and said they were in Marietta Friday night while the flogging occurred at Smyrna, near here. Pleas of mistaken identity will be submitted by at least four of the men, it was said.

MURIEL SPRING TO WED "MYSTERY MAN"

New York, Nov. 22.—Muriel Spring, the actress, who has been living in London, returned home on the Majestic, but she asserted at the pier she would go back to the English capital in ten days to marry. She refused to disclose the name of her intended husband.

Truckman With Load of Alcohol Hunts "Yale Brewery"

New Haven, Nov. 22.—In search of the "Yale Brewery," the driver of a New York truck appeared on the Yale campus, anxious to deliver a load of twenty-six barrels of denatured alcohol to a chemical company which now occupies the plant of the Yale brewing company, about a mile from the campus.

"Guess he read about the grape juice episode," said one of a crowd of students who gathered to take a whiff of his cargo. "Smells like perfectly good hooch," another was heard to say. After much bantering of the mystified driver, the students directed him to the brewing plant, where the load was delivered.

GIRL THROWS NO LIGHT ON DEATH

Catskill, N. Y., Nov. 22. (I.N.S.)—Anna Sobin, the sixteen-year-old maid, and a central figure in the mystery surrounding the strangulation of seven-year-old Howard Rothenberg of Newark at Windham, last August, today in an interview again maintained her innocence and said she could tell nothing which would unravel the mystery.

Mrs. Charles Rothenberg, mother of the boy, is understood to have told the Greene County Grand Jury that her boy came to his death at the hands of Anna, who acted as his nurse.

The girl, looking younger than her sixteen years, appears unconcerned. She is being detained as a "guest" at the home of Sheriff Pierce of Greene County. The authorities believe her innocent.

IT'S GOING TO BE DRY, VERY DRY, IN PRISON

There was joy in Tony's manner,
A smile on Tony's face.
His cell was full of sunshine
For he had a vaft of grapes.
When the jailer shed the cell block
Tony'd sure be sitting fine.
Then the 100 pounds of Concords
Would be forty jugs of wine.
But a stool rat buzzed the jailer;
The news was noised about.
Now there ain't no joy in Charlestown.
For the grapes have been barred out.

Not only the grapes, but raisins, too.

State's Prison boys used to celebrate Thanksgiving pretty.

Smuggled in grapes and the Little Italy residents did the pressing. Then the wine flowed. This year, however, the bars are up. It will be a dry Thanksgiving over Jesse Pomroy's way.

WIFE ADVISED HUBBY TO GET SWEETHEART

By A. J. LORENZ

Chicago, Nov. 22 (Universal Service).—When a man takes his wife's advice, she is to be blamed for his subsequent conduct.

So ruled a jury today in refusing to grant a divorce to Mrs. Victor Thrane against her millionaire husband.

Attorneys for Thrane aforesaid a letter that Mrs. Thrane wrote to her husband, a musical impresario, urging him "to get a sweetheart."

"That letter is an open invitation to infidelity," said Benson Landon, one of the attorneys.

The letter even suggested that a sweetheart would "be good for him," Thrane's attorney declared.

The letter was written by Mrs. Thrane in Florida to Mr. Thrane in New York in July, 1921. It was couched in endearing terms and proved a strong argument for Thrane. Its tone indicated that Mrs. Thrane had forgiven her husband for alleged misconduct during her absence. It was written five years after these acts occurred, the attorney pointed out.

In the same letter, despite its intimacies, Mrs. Thrane wrote of taking motion ride with James H. Bernard, prominent Chicago attorney. Bernard, Thrane charged, was the man he drove from their apartment after he found him and Mrs. Thrane in a moonlight tete-a-tete.

"It rains in our family, we like to watch the moon," Mrs. Thrane countered, when evidence was offered. She charged through two maids, that her husband had entertained two pretty girls in the Thrane apartment during her absence. Among the incidents the maids recounted was a dance at dawn in pink silk pajamas, after which Thrane it was alleged, asked the colored cook's opinion as to the beauty of his partners. This, Thrane denied, and the letter, interpreted as an invitation to infidelity was produced.

Pursues Hubby

HUNGARIONS TO DUEL OVER YOUNG DUKE

Budapest, Nov. 22.—Minister of Education Kliebersberg has challenged Deputy Rakovsky, Royalist, to a duel for an alleged insulting remark during a stormy debate in Parliament over the public prayers and other birthday ceremonies for the young Archduke Otto, son of the late ex-Emperor Charles, during which Otto's name was cheered by the crowd as "hereditary King of Hungary."

BIGAMIST LEADS PAULETTE A MERRY CHASE

Poor Paulette.

He is Donald Grafton of Pittsburgh.

He kept always just ahead of her.

Now she plans to sail for Havana, having learned that hubby is en route there.

Grafton came into notoriety when he staged three marriages, its was charged, in dizzy succession. Paulette was his only legal wife.

An Interesting Statement to Any Family That Wants a Piano—By J. P. COLLINS

I have all makes of pianos; I have no hard and fast rules as to terms; in fact, you make your own terms. If you can't keep up to your agreement I will promise that you won't lose your piano if you are honest.

Bill of Sale in Case of Death

That is, if you die while the contract is being performed I will issue a bill of sale to your family even if you have only paid the first payment. This is the kind of insurance you get from me. I want to do business with the great middle class. I don't care whether you are rich or poor or what your religion or nationality is—I want to help you own a good piano. The golden rule satisfies me. I worked at the bench years ago as a practical piano maker, so I know what is right. I have 300 pianos in stock—used uprights, players and grands. Let me make your Christmas happy.

BASKET FUND BRINGS JOY TO SICK VETERAN

While lying in bed at City Hospital, where he has been confined for the past fourteen months, James Fleming, an ex-service man, was made happy by the American's Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund.

Using his bed-spring for an aerial, Fleming enjoyed the performance of "Dew Drop Inn," which was broadcasted from the Majestic Theatre for the benefit of the American's Christmas Fund. The radio set he used was borrowed as he is not wealthy enough to own one.

This is only one instance in which the American's Helping Hand Christmas Fund has brought good cheer into the lives of unfortunates.

READERS CAN HELP.

You too, dear reader, may help lift the burden by sending a contribution to this Fund which expects to feed 50,000 men, women and children in their homes on Christmas Day.

And do not forget that EVERY CENT you give will be spent solely for food. Not a penny of your contribution will be used for any other purpose. All the expenses connected with this great undertaking are paid for by the Boston American out of their own treasury.

Several radio enthusiasts who "listened-in" on last Monday night's performance of "Dew Drop Inn" and later heard the appeal for funds from the Basket Fund Editor, have sent in contributions. If every radio fan who heard the show would make a donation to the Fund there would not be an unhappy child in Greater Boston at Christmas.

THINK IT OVER.

Think it over, folks—there is many a home in this city where families haven't enough to eat, to say nothing of being sufficiently well off to have the nightly pleasure of "listening-in" to a radio concert.

As you "tune-in" tonight on your radio set why not decide to lift the burden for one unfortunate family on Christmas Day. You will feel better if you help bring good cheer to at least one family.

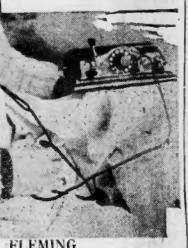
DIVORCE FOR WIFE OF CARLYLE BLACKWELL

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—Ruth Hartman Blackwell was granted a divorce here from Carlyle Blackwell, film star, on the grounds of desertion. Blackwell, who is said to be playing in London now, did not contest the suit. A property settlement including $250 monthly alimony has been arranged out of court.

Carlyle Blackwell



5 NEAR DEATH IN BLAZING SEAPLANE

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 23.—Five officers and enlisted men of the aircraft squadrons, battle fleet, crew of an F-5-L seaplane, engaged in spotting torpedoes twenty-five miles off Point Loma, narrowly escaped being blown to pieces, when their aircraft caught fire, exploded and sank in fifty fathoms of water. All five were rescued by the destroyer Kennedy after they had been swimming for more than twenty minutes. Chief Electrician Nelson was the only man injured.

BROOKLINE MAN SUED IN DIVORCE TANGLE

Russell Williams of No. 352 Riverway, whose wife, Marion L. Williams of No. 228 Commonwealth avenue, is suing for divorce, today filed an attachment against the property of O. Charles F. Klnum of Brookline, president of the Aetna Products Company.

Mrs. Williams is thirty years old, and is an attractive blonde. She was, before her marriage, Marion Liston of Cambridge. For several years she was employed as a State House clerk. In her divorce suit Mrs. Williams charges cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Williams is alleged to have left her husband last July and on Nov. 10 of this year Williams had divorce papers served on him. A few days later Mrs. Williams' attorneys applied to the court for a restraining order against Williams, claiming that he was harassing and annoying her and the court granted her this on Nov. 14.

The couple were married on April 19, 1920, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

PARTY QUARREL WORRIES COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—The row between the Republican regulars and the Republican progressives in the House has become so serious that President Coolidge was asked today to take a hand in it and try to mediate the differences so that the House may organize and get down to business on schedule time.

The White House is showing its concern by sending C. Bascom Slemp, the President's secretary, to the Capitol for conferences with the quarreling factional leaders.

The possibility of lengthy delay in getting to the country the forthcoming message of President Coolidge with its expected recommendations for legislation because Congress may be organized to receive it is causing administration leaders grave concern.

This State paper is considered of vital importance to the future political well-being of the President and to the success of the Republican party.

HUNTS WIFE WHO LEFT HOME WITHOUT CASH

Frank Dears of No. 499 Columbus avenue has appealed to the Boston American to aid him in finding his wife, Thelma, who left home on November 13. On that day she telephoned she was at the South Station, waiting for a train for New York. According to her husband, she had no money.

She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 128 pounds, is of medium complexion and has black hair. The couple have one child, three years old.

Letters from a Senator's Wife. Dog and Child Culture. 3 pages of cutouts in color for the kiddies. 8 stories and 50 features

There's a fork in the road. Two paths lie before you: You choose one — and the rest of your life is changed. Suppose you had taken the other road, adopted a different direction in life. What, then, would have been your destiny? What greater or less fortune would have been yours? Happiness or sorrow? Fate plays queer tricks, makes strange choices for you, as William J. Locke, Robert Hichens, Kathleen Norris, Temple Bailey and others show you in December Good Housekeeping.

The fate that throws people together

Imagine a mysterious Russian princess; a sophisticated world-famous artist; and a clumsy, awkward, crude farm boy from Australia—all thrown together by a queer fate in a charming villa on the Riviera. Out of this strange mixture comes a result which only the author of "The Beloved Vagabond," aided by fate, could have secured. A new novel, "The Coming of Amos," by William J. Locke, starts in December Good Housekeeping.

Fate that keeps a man and woman apart

Sometimes fate steps in and keeps a woman from the man she loves. There seems to be no solace for the heartbreaking days that follow. And then, quite suddenly, there is revealed the unsuspected reason why fate intervened. An unforgettable story, "Clem's Wife," by Fanny Heaslip Lea.

Fate—that changes character

It could have been only fate that made these three steal at the same time. One stole a Christmas pudding; one stole the hope of a beggar at his door; and the third stole the heart of a girl. All were made happier, and one was taught the power of kindness. Read Temple Bailey's fine story "Three Who Stole at Christmas Time"—complete in December Good Housekeeping.

ASKS NEW $100 STATE BONUS FOR VETERANS

A bill proposing an additional bonus of $100 for everyone who served in the forces of Uncle Sam during the World War from the State of Massachusetts was today filed by Representative John H. Logue of Ward 6.

The bill also proposes that this bonus apply to the yeomanettes as well as to male veterans.

A former bonus paid soldiers, sailors and marines by the State was for $100, but did not include the female branch of the service.

Chided by Court

MRS. W. A. DUNLAP

DUNLAP SEIZED IN CAFE ROW

New York, Nov. 22.—William A. Dunlap, claiming to be the son of the founder of the Dunlap Company, and Frederick Hunter, broker, were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct. They received suspended sentences.

Dunlap, who is fifty-four and has a town house here, told the court Mrs. Dunlap had claimed Hunter was trying to blackmail her. He said Mrs. Dunlap made an engagement with Hunter in a Broadway restaurant.

Hunter told the court he met Mrs. Dunlap because the latter had complained of Dunlap's mistreatment. Dunlap's story of alleged blackmail was vehemently denied by his handsome wife when she was summoned from her home by Magistrate McAndrews.

She said she had met Hunter voluntarily and that her husband, without provocation, drew the gun. The court chided her for making such an engagement.

NINE STOWAWAYS GRAFT VICTIMS

Rouen, France, Nov. 22.—Nine Greek, Turkish and Italian stowaways, found aboard a Belgian steamer at this port, told the authorities that in consideration of from 1,000 to 5,000 francs each they had been guaranteed entry into the United States.

The stowaways had been shipped at Antwerp by a band of men who had taken passage money from numbers of other foreigners under similar conditions, only to put them ashore at some European port.

MIRTH AND JOLLITY IN LOCAL LAFS

PAIN GONE! RUB SORE, RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Stop "dosing" rheumatism. It's pain only. St. Jacobs Oil will stop any pain, and not one rheumatism case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right on the tender spot, and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints, and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest St. Jacobs Oil from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

$14,500,000 FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS

In his annual report to the school committee Superintendent of Schools Jeremiah E. Burke explains in detail how Boston's schoolhouse appropriation for the years 1920-1925 was stretched from $7,500,000 to $14,500,000 to meet the ever-rising demands upon the school facilities of the city.

The five-year program for the expenditure of $7,500,000 was authorized by the General Court in 1920, when overcrowding in Boston's schools had become a serious problem. The increase was authorized early this year, when it became apparent that the smaller sum would not suffice to meet the growing needs of the city.

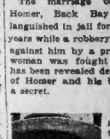
The costs have been, and will continue to be, paid out of current taxation, the school committee insisting on a "pay as you go" policy in the construction of school buildings.

Since 1918 twenty-seven new school buildings, with 266 classrooms have been built, exclusive of the new Latin School. There are now building the new Dorchester High School and seven grade schools, with fifty-six classrooms, and the Winship School in Brighton is being remodelled.

Plans have been drawn for a new Roxbury High School for Girls, three intermediate schools in Dorchester and one in East Boston, with eighty-six rooms, and a new high school in East Boston will be under way soon. A large apartment building has been purchased at No. 56 Fenway for the Girls' Trade School.

DR. HOMER WEDS RICH GIRL IN ELOPEMENT

The marriage of Dr. Joseph Homer, Back Bay dentist, who languished in jail for more than two years while a robbery charge brought against him by a prominent society woman was fought in the courts, has been revealed despite the efforts of Homer and his bride to keep it a secret.



Dr. Homer

The bride is Miss Corinne Simons, daughter of a wealthy retired Worcester merchant, now residing in Brookline. They were married in Nashua, N. H., a month ago, by a justice of the peace, the doctor admitted, following an elopement from this city.

The romance of the couple was colorful. The engagement and wedding ring Homer gave his bride he made with his own hands in his own dental laboratory. In the engagement ring he set a square ruby, because of his distaste for the "vulgarity" of diamonds. For a wedding present, the doctor presented her the rights to his patent of an articulator, valued for sale at $60,000.

Dr. Homer's sensational court fights and his commitment to jail followed startling charges made against him by Mrs. Madge E. Wilbur of Los Angeles that he held her up with a revolver and forced her to deliver to him $17,000 in jewels. He was convicted and sentenced. He won an appeal before the full bench of the State Supreme Court and secured a new trial. The case came to an abrupt end when Mrs. Wilbur died.

Dr. Homer met his bride less than a year ago at a Valentine party in Brookline. They were drawn together because of their mutual appreciation of music and literature.

2106 SHIPS BROKE LAWS OF U. S.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Some of the achievements of the U. S. Coast Guard during the last fiscal year are listed in this way:

Number of vessels seized or reported for law violations during the year was 2,106, against 496 for the preceding year.

Lives saved, 2,792.

Fines and penalties incurred by vessels reported, $167,791.

Derelicts and other obstructions to navigation removed, 46.

Value of vessels and cargoes assisted, $61,434,093.

Value of derelicts recovered and delivered to owners, $110,000.

Forty-three Coast Guard men lost their lives and twenty-three medals of honor awarded for life saving.

PENNSYLVANIA NOW HAS LABOR SURPLUS

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 22.—The supply of common labor, for the first time in many months, exceeds the demand in practically all the industrial centres of Pennsylvania, reports of State employment officers announced by the Department of Labor and Industry today, show. In the metals and machinery industries the supply of skilled workmen exceeds the demand.

Special Style Values in Fall Pumps

GIRLS' BEAUTY INCREASES EVERY YEAR, SAYS ZIEGFELD

New York, Nov. 22.—The beauty of American girls is increasing every year. This is the expert opinion of Flo Ziegfeld, producer of the perennial "Follies."

"Take Adele Rolf, for example. A native New Yorker. Eighteen. Understudy for half a dozen dancers. A brunette of the adorable type. Were there such brunettes in New York City when the Follies were first produced?"

"There were not. Each year the girls seem to be just a bit more beautiful."

WELLMAN HAS DIRECTED 3 PICTURES

WILLIAM A. WELLMAN, a Newton boy, has made good as a movie director. After working for six months as assistant with the Fox Film Corporation he was made a full director last May and since that time has handled three pictures, "The Man Who Won," "Second Hand Love" and "Big Dan." Mr. Wellman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Wellman of Newtonville, and is a brother of A. O. Wellman, well known in the local shoe trade.

Ethel Wales.

ETHEL WALES, who is appearing in "Which Shall It Be?" bids fair to achieve a niche in the "American Mother" hall of fame. As one critic who pre-viewed the picture states, she is—"just ordinary farm folks, looks like farm folks and has a flock of offspring." Miss Wales will be remembered by local movie fans as the very interesting mother in "The Covered Wagon."

NITA NALDI just cannot keep away from New York. She is back again, after a busy season before the camera in Hollywood, whether she find her. May is add her might to the beauty of the screen and also add her bit to the family exchequer. She has just completed a featured role in William de Mille's newest Paramount production, "Holiday Love." Whereupon she started for New York.

CONFIRM DISCOVERY OF CITY OF DAVID

London, Nov. 22.—Discovery of the ancient city of David, reported from Jerusalem, is confirmed by Professor Robert A. Macalister, leader of the joint exploration of the Palestine Exploration Fund and the Daily Telegraph. Macalister says he believes the expedition has discovered the remains of the mysterious "Millo" mentioned in the biblical description of David's fortifications in the Jebusite citadel he captured.

POLISH GIRLS PLAN GIFT TO GEN. HALLER

Miss Zonia Tabor

One of the features of the reception to General Joseph Haller, of Poland, who will be the guest of the American Legion and the City of Boston next week, will be the presentation of a gift by more than 100 Polish young women of Essex County.

Miss Zonia Agnes Tabor, of No. 248 Union street, Lynn, secretary of the City of Lynn Theatre Censorship Committee, and prominent in Polish circles in Greater Boston, is in charge of the plans to have the Essex County Polish girls remember the famous general with a token of esteem.

NEW COURTHOUSE FOR BRIGHTON

Brighton District is to have a new courthouse. Judge Thomas H. Connelly has this assurance from Mayor Curley.

Recently Judge Connelly wrote the Mayor a letter, calling attention to the inadequate present quarters. The Mayor took the matter up with the judge and has now assured him he will make provision in next year's budget for a new courthouse.

The present building was erected thirty-two years ago and also houses the police department. Both are crowded.

PLAN NEW NAVAL AIR RESERVE

Washington, Nov. 22.—Plans for an aviation reserve system to train 150 to 200 expert fliers annually were announced today by the Navy Department. It is the first concrete step toward building the air service of the fleet to the strength required by modern tactics.

In each naval district "in which the public is sufficiently interested" it is proposed to organize a reserve aviation unit capable of turning out a minimum of ten pilots a year. The reserve will be kept to a fixed strength by this annual influx of new blood.

Administration and training will be under the commandant of the district in which the unit is located.

"Owing to the shortage of funds," the announcement says, "the department must look to the civil authorities of the community in which this unit is to be established for co-operation and material assistance in obtaining those items which current appropriation cannot undertake."

U. S. INVESTORS SEEK IRISH BOND FACTS

Dublin, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—American investors are making numerous inquiries about the forthcoming bond issue of the Irish free State. The Irish consulate in New York has been authorized to accept applications. The issue probably will be for nearly £50,000,000 in multiples of ten pounds sterling. They will be sold at 88 ($369 for a $1,000 bond) and will bear 5 per cent. interest.

Bigamist Spent 3 Days a Week With Each Wife

E. F. HORSTMAN AND HIS TWO WIVES

Three days to each wife. Sunday to himself. This was the way Edward H. Horstman of Chicago, local cattle dealer, arrested recently for bigamy, disposed of his time. Horstman testified in Superior Court that he had made it a practice to devote three days a week to each of his two wives and to leave both wives on Sunday. Horstman was arrested after Mrs. Edith May Horstman, his second wife, discovered that there was a Mrs. Horstman No. 1. Mrs. Horstman No. 2 was then granted a divorce when her husband admitted his dual life. He agreed to pay her $2,000 alimony.

Foils Police in Home of His Third Wife; Believe He Fled to Canada

Glen Falls, N. Y., Nov. 22.—George L. Anderson, arrested in South Glens Falls on a charge of bigamy, escaped from an officer and is believed to have gone to Canada.

He was arrested while on his way to meet the woman who, it is alleged, he married while two other wives were living.

While he was with the officer at the home of the alleged third wife, he crawled through a bathroom window and disappeared. A man answering his description engaged a taxicab for a trip to Montreal.

According to the police, Anderson was married to Viola Kessner at Plattsburgh in 1921. On June 21 last, it is alleged, he married Eleanor Holland of Poultney, Vt., the ceremony being performed by Rev. Keeny, N. H., by Rev. Austin M. Reed.

Six weeks later, the police declared, he was married to Ruth Harrington of South Glens Falls.

Anderson is about twenty-four years of age, is said to belong in Troy, where he had appeared in the prize ring.

HUSTLED IN VAIN TO GET PLANT BACK

Willett, In $15,000,000 Suit, Tells How He Went From One to Another

George F. Willett, in his ninth day on the witness stand in the Willett-Sears $15,000,000 suit against Robert F. Herrick and others in the Superior Court at Dedham, today continued his story of how he and his partner were reduced from millionaires to poor men.

The witness told of his endeavor to get back the Industrial Service Company, one of the Willett companies taken over with the American Felt Company by the financial syndicate, which, he said, had promised to raise a loan of $3,000,000 for him. He said that he spoke to S. H. Fessenden about his endeavor to interest Colonel William A. Gaston in the project. He also spoke to Fessenden about the valuation which the latter put on the Industrial Service Company at first and compared it with the valuation put on after the witness had some prospect of buying it back.

SEES ROBERT WINSOR.

"It seems to have increased wonderfully in value, I said." Willett continued:

"I asked Fessenden to see the Shawmut Bank people for me about this matter," the witness said, "and he said he would. Later I asked him what the bank officers reported and he replied: 'Just what was to have been expected.' I found out later, but not from any of the defendants that my proposition had been accepted at the bank.

"I then had another interview with Robert Winsor and asked him to help us get our properties back. I found his manner cold, where it had previously been warm and sympathetic. I told him that Fessenden and Herrick were acting strangely about liquidating our properties.

"Fessenden, I told him, seemed to take pleasure in turning down any proposition for the restoration of our properties that I put up to him. Winsor called his stenographer and said: 'I am going to resign from the committee. Who is chairman of the banking syndicate?

FROM ONE TO ANOTHER.

"I answered that I couldn't find out, and had been sent from one to another in a vain effort to find out. Winsor said: 'Well, I'll find out.'

On Thanksgiving Day I rode to Providence with Winsor and he accused me of making statements that were not true. He would not tell me who had told him this, but Fessenden had said the same thing.

ACTRESS ASKS DIVORCE

ELSA HEIMS AND HER THREE CHILDREN

Beautiful German stage star with her two sons and daughter. She is suing for divorce in Berlin claiming that her husband, Prof. Max Reinhardt, Berlin theatre magnate, has ignored a court order to pay her $120 monthly for the care of her two sons.

FIGHT WILL OF RICH WIDOW

Aged Sister Combats Bequest of Estate to Strange Young Man

Mrs. Maria B. Hayes of Melrose has engaged counsel to contest the will of her sister, because the latter left the residue of her immense estate to Julius S. Zeiser, twenty-five years old, provided Zeiser changes his name to John S. McConihe.

The sister, Mrs. Adeline S. P. McConihe, widow of a former Brookline man died at her home at No. 1105 Madison avenue, New York. She was seventy-three years old.

All relatives are cut off in the will, although specific bequests of $135,000 are made to persons outside the family, and $5,500 is willed to the three executors, provided they seek no other compensation for their services.

Zeiser, who received the residue an amount not yet estimated, is a resident of Schenectady, N. Y. He and the other beneficiaries are unknown to Mrs. Hayes.

Mrs. Hayes is eighty-six years old. For fifty years she has lived at No. 62 Cottage street, Melrose and is still active in the Grange, the G. A. R., the G. A. R. auxiliary, and the Rebekahs. She is also a Sunday school teacher in Boston's Chinatown.

DAUGHTER FIGHTS WILL.

"My daughter is really the one who is going to break my sister's will," Mrs. Hayes, who is a widow, said this morning. "I feel that seven years ago, in [illegible] she offered [illegible] for [illegible] and [illegible] for [illegible] the girl.

"I knew nothing [illegible] of my wealthy sister's death [illegible] I read something about the will in the paper a few weeks ago," said Mrs. Hayes. "Then I thought nothing of it, as I am daughter [illegible] Civil War pension and now [illegible] a house and am comfortably settled."

Mrs. Hayes and her sister were brought up in Newton and their father formerly owned property in the North End of Boston.

Zeiser, it is reported met Miss McConihe in Florida and rendered services as a guide and companion.

$50,000 TO NEWTON WOMAN.

"To my dearest friend, Ethel Todd Norton," Washington street, Newton." Mrs. McConihe bequeaths $50,000 and several valuable jewels.

To George Todd, No. 14 Washington street, Newton, $50,000

To Eunice Norton, "coral necklace."

To Mary R. Lincoln, New York $20,000

To Stafford, Horace and Edgar Mole of Pyrland, Taunton, England, $10,000.

To Jean Allen, New York city, $5,000

To Mrs. S. Thomas, Douglas on Long Island, "morgnette and chair."

Finally, "all the rest, residue and remainder" of her estate is bequeathed to "Julius S. Zeiser (to be known as John S. Zeiser) providing, however, that he change his name to "John S. McConihe."

Mrs. McConihe's husband, who died Dec. 18, 1910, was president of the self-propelled Billiard Manufacturing Company, makers of billiard balls, cues and other implements of the game, and left nearly all of the estate to his wife.

STAGE NUDITY ASSAILED BY METHODISTS

Washington, Nov. 22. — Declaring the New York theatre has sunk to depths of indecency which would not be tolerated in Sues, the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist-Episcopal Church has opened fire to purge the stage of immodesty and suggestiveness.

All the condemnation, in which adjectives were not spared, was directed against New York. "There is nothing American in the foulness of the New York show house, the girls appear without clothing, producers strive for the physical side of sex emotion and the whole atmosphere is obnoxious for the youth of the country, which sets its theatrical standards after New York."

GIRL SHOWS SCORED.

The broadside was delivered in the clip sheet of the Methodist board appearing under the name of the Rev. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary, and Deets Pickett, research secretary. The article hinted at an effort toward censorship and called upon the people of New York to rally around crime and vice prevention societies.

"Two girl shows in particular," continued the clip sheet, "are gross ly indecent and lascivious, at once of those shows girls do dances while practically naked.

"At another show, which is offered by a man famous in theatrical circles and which is shown at a most prominent theatre, girls troop down to the footlights, naked from the waist up and practically naked from the waist down—don't call it nude, just plain naked.

FORD INSULTED

"The dialogue in the first of these shows is sufficiently offensive. In the second it goes far beyond the limits. Scene 8 of Act 1 in this show is entitled 'If Ford were President,' and is a farcical representation of a hypothetical cabinet meeting. Ford is there and is made a typical fool.

"William Jennings Bryan is there with a bottle of whiskey in his pocket.

"Another scene is a burlesque on the play 'Rain.' It makes a joke of the activities of a lewd woman. The chief man in the affair is a missionary. The whole thing, dialogue and all, could hardly be more indecent.

"Never before have leading theatrical producers made such a public appeal in prominent theatres to the physical side of sex emotion. The remedy and the duty are in the hands of New York, and America expects New York to prove itself American."

CHICAGO BOY DIES OF FOOTBALL HURTS

Chicago, Nov. 22 (I. N. S.).—Joseph Blouim, 20 years old, died in a hospital here today of injuries suffered Sunday in a neighborhood football game. He received a facial fracture of the skull in tackling an opposing player.

HER CINNAMON KISS SAVES GRID STAR

It was at a football game.

Just as the husky fullback made the winning touchdown somebody, in great joy, slipped him a generous nip from a generous flask.

Homeward bound he realized that his breath was a bit startling. And the Missus was a mental relation to Volstead.

What could he do to offset that breath?

Ah, an idea!

Rushing up to a jaunty flapper he exclaimed, "Wasn't it a wonderful victory?" and smacked her for a cinnamon kiss.

He went home with the light of victory in his eyes.

Or his lips the cinnamon barrier.

From a football angle he had scored a perfect safety.

All because of the new tangled lip sticks that scientists are concocting. No longer the tasteless lip stick. They are flavored [illegible] being cherry, peach, pomegranate, lemon, orange, [illegible] and chocolate and others. One can't quite fathom the why of a sylph like flapper flavoring her lips with ginger; in a kiss the ginger's there, else she's a flop as a flap.

But one can soon see somebody's Missus doing some soft shoe smelling after, her spouse is tackled by Morpheus upon a 2 a. m. return home.

"With that hussy again," you can hear her say.. "The lime liepin' cat. Oh-h-h-h-h."

MISS O'CONNOR ONCE MORE HEADS UNION

Although the Telephone Operators' Department of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' Union held its third biannual convention in this city secretly, it was learned that Miss Julia S. O'Connor had been re-elected president.

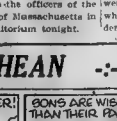
Julia O'Connor

Miss O'Connor refused to confirm or deny this saying that the transactions of the delegates gathered in Tremont building constituted "nobody's business but their own" and refused to discuss the convention.

Miss May Brady, Providence, R. I., former treasurer, was elected secretary, and Miss Anna Foley, Worcester, treasurer.

GEN. ELY A VISITOR AT THE ARMY BASE

Major-General Harmon E. Ely, commandant of the war college, Washington, and with Colonel Louis C Scherer, former ly in charge of militia affairs in New England, visited the army base South Boston today in the interests of the National Guard of this state.



Gen. Ely

The general will speak before the officers of the National Guard of Massachusetts in the Gardner Auditorium tonight.

WIFE TO ATTACH LIBRARY OF REINHARDT

Berlin, Nov. 22 (Universal Cable) —Elsa Heims, famous German actress, announces her intention of asking the Berlin courts to place a lien on the big library of her husband, Professor Max Reinhardt, Berlin theatre magnate, pending the decision in divorce proceedings brought by Reinhardt in Czechoslovakia.

The actress charges Reinhardt with not supporting their two sons, aged ten and fifteen. She states that the court in Czechoslovakia granted her the custody of the children and ordered him to pay $120 monthly pending decision of the divorce action, but that Reinhardt succeeded in getting a suspension of [illegible] for the children.

UNABLE TO BUY CLOTHES.

Miss Heims avers that she is unable to buy even clothing for the boys and wants to prevent Reinhardt from removing his library from Berlin.

Reinhardt is now in New York, where he expects to produce several plays.

With the divorce proceedings came accounts in which the whole gamut of human emotions is run. Love, first unconventional, then legalized by matrimony, a child born out of wedlock, marriage after eleven years, jealousy on both sides, a challenge to a duel, tempestuous scenes, charges and counter charges of toying lightly with marriage vows, detectives and spies all appeared in the documents filed.

WINDOW TRYSTS.

In the background of Reinhardt's divorce drama the person of Princess Mechtilde Lichnowsky [illegible] in high society and in motion [illegible] one European capital, and whose husband was German Ambassador to the Court of St. James when the war broke out in 1914, is made to appear as the one time sweetheart of the dramatist.

The wife charges the Princess had often been seen climbing through a window to Reinhardt's suite to keep her trysts with Edmund, Max's brother, in his Berlin apartment.

Mrs. Reinhardt upbraided her husband for placing a stigma on her eldest son, born out of wedlock. She was willing to overlook his alleged [illegible] with other women "because a genius cannot be measured and judged by the standards of other men."

Girl Sat on Lighted Cigarette; Suing "L" for Damages

A case out of the ordinary is now on trial in the Superior Court for Suffolk County.

Miss Mabel Sheridan is seeking damages against the Boston Elevated Street Railway Co. for personal injuries and damage to her clothing by a lighted cigarette butt upon which she unconsciously sat in a street car.

4 WOUNDED AS POSSES CLASH BY MISTAKE

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 22.—Four members of a volunteer posse [illegible] ed to search for suspects [illegible] were shot and [illegible] ended by a posse [illegible] Sheriff Herman Weber of Clay County, [illegible] in battle at Coxs [illegible] of [illegible] today. The wounded men [illegible] Lloyd Thomas Collins, [illegible] Vern Beeson and Paul Wilkinson. Sheriff Weber received a call [illegible] about midnight from near Coxs [illegible] that an automobile party [illegible] county was acting in a suspicious manner. With a force of [illegible] he started for the [illegible] meantime the violators [illegible] been aroused and a volley [illegible] fired.

[illegible] party approached [illegible] was met by the [illegible] posse [illegible] them to be bandits, [illegible] posse called upon them to halt.

Sheriff Weber, thinking he had been ambushed by bandits, opened fire with a shotgun. The volunteer posse returned the fire, but none of the sheriff's posse was injured.

Sugar Price Jumped

New York, Nov. 22.—Arbuckle Brothers today advanced the price of refined sugar 10 points, to 10 cents a pound.

GIRL DIVER GONE; DETECTIVE BLAMED

Marian Way, twenty years old, of Mapes street, Dorchester, has disappeared. Her mother ascribes the girl's departure to the influence of a former Boston detective. So infatuated was the girl for this man, the mother said, that she turned her weekly pay envelopes over to him, and had accompanied him to cheap dance halls.

The girl has been missing for several weeks. She left her home on a previous occasion, her mother said, to live in Roxbury and there to work as an exhibition diver in a small theatre.

ON PAGE 17.

The Boston American prints today complete instructions on the winding and mounting of the radio-frequency coupling transformers, which are the key to "the super-neutrodyne receiver."

These coils are mounted in exactly the same way as the coils for the ordinary neutrodyne are mounted. That is to say, they are set behind the condensers and at a sixty-degree angle.

It is possible to build a successful super-neutrodyne with the coils in vertical position, as shown in the photographs of a super-neutrodyne receiver a few days ago. In experimenting, however, it was found that the sixty-degree angle was better.

Each of the two transformers consists of two winding, one inside the other. The inner winding is the primary, and the outer winding the secondary. No. 22 single silk covered wire is used for winding the coils.

The primary is wound on a composition tube, 2¾ inches in outside diameter, and the secondary on a tube 3 inches in outside diameter. Both tubes are 2¾ inches in length.

PRIMARY WINDING.

The primary is wound by taking six turns of wire, spaced about an eighth of an inch apart, near one end of the tube. The wire is anchored at either end by three small holes made with a No. 55 drill, so that the ends of the wire will come through to the inside of the coil.

The secondary is wound by taking sixty-five turns, unspaced, and anchoring at either end by two holes, instead of three.

The secondary is then slipped inside the primary, and the two are spaced apart and mounted in a sixty degree angle with the baseboard in any way desired. The two completed transformers should be mounted, however, with their centres from 7 to 8 inches apart.

For those who are planning to follow the panel layout which will be published soon the following directions show how to mount the coils in back of Federal condensers.

It is first necessary to cut and drill a template from some stray piece of bakelite. A rectangular piece 1¼ inches by 4 inches is most convenient.

MAKING THE TEMPLATE.

This is drilled as shown in the sketch in an adjoining column. The large hole in the center fits over the main stem of the condenser, and the two outside holes slip over two of the plate supports that protrude through the back of the condenser.

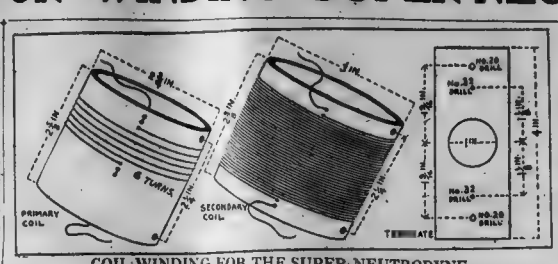
This sets the template so that two holes may be spotted in the bakelite back of the condenser 2¼ inches apart. These holes are drilled with a No. 32 drill and tapped for No. 6 brass screws with 32 thread.

Two holes are drilled in the primary and secondary coils 2¼ inches apart so as to take the two No. 6 screws. A small brass tube, cut to proper size, is slipped over the two screws between the coil and the back of the condenser, so as to set the transformer a short distance from the condenser. The two screws should be 1¼ inches long. A brass washer or two between the inner and outer coil will serve to space them.

When the condenser is mounted as shown in a panel layout to be published soon, the two coupling transformers will be parallel, and tipped at a 90-degree angle.

The ends of the coil windings may be brought to binding posts at the top and bottom of the transformer, as desired by the builder.

Tomorrow the American will publish a panel layout for the super neutrodyne, giving the correct dimensions and size of holes, etc. Later a simplified sketch of the back panel mounting will be published, so that the proper wiring scheme may be followed easily.



COIL WINDING FOR THE SUPER NEUTRODYNE

The winding of the two coils for the radio-frequency couplers in the super neutrodyne is shown above. For the finished coupler, the primary is set inside the secondary. To the right is shown the dimensions of a template to be used as a guide for mounting the transformers.

Petition to the President

TO the Honorable Calvin Coolidge,
President of the United States:

We, the undersigned radio broadcast listeners, respectfully call your attention to the serious interference to radio reception which is caused by remediable factors. Chief among these is the interference caused by commercial radio telegraph stations, which we believe is unwarrantable.

We therefore petition you herewith to take immediate and emergency action to have this interference stopped. We also ask that when Congress convenes, you ask that body to pass the proper legislation for permanent relief.

Mine Dividend Cut

New York, Nov. 22.—The Calumet & Arizona Mining Company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, placing it on a $2 annual

She gets relief from DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN And so do the children

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of ill; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 25 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg Va., Mr. Louis C. Greil of 1549 Wisteria ave., Lakewood, Ohio, and innumerable others, give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of constipation, and have no sickness among their children.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription, written 50 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic, or your money will be refunded.

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take coal-tar drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe. Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful proves it.

GAS

AN EVEN COMFORTABLE TEMPERATURE can be maintained in your home this winter by the use of one or more Gas Radiantfires.

On cold fall days you will need no other heat. When the central heating plant is required you can again save coal by the use of the Radiantfires instead of forcing the furnace.

Indeed many people were surprised to find last winter that Radiantfires gave them all the heat required the entire winter. And the cost, considering the wonderful comfort, the saving of labor because dirt and ashes and the handling of coal was eliminated, is not at all excessive.

Full information about all forms of auxiliary or complete heating by Gas will gladly be furnished on request—Call Beach 7060 for all information.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

By Rida Johnson Young,

Whose Plays Have Won Her a High Place Among American Playwrights.

"Little Old New York," from the Broadway Success of That Name, by Rida Johnson Young, Has Been Created Into a Superlative Motion Picture by Cosmopolitan Productions—Direction of Sidney Olcott—Adapted by Luther Reed.

ONE by one the others nodded.

Only in Astor's eyes was there any sign of a change. In Larry, as he looked at the old merchant, a faint hope began to dawn. And now, indeed, Astor spoke.

"Gentlemen," he said. "I am disposed to feel that some further deliberation of this case may be required, even though it is unlikely that our decision can be altered. I suggest, however, that instead of remanding the prisoner at once to jail, she be left in my custody until this afternoon."

Schuyler looked bored; one or two of the others were puzzled. But Chancellor Livingston nodded, gravely.

"I agree," he said.

It was not often that a decision reached jointly by Astor and Livingston was challenged by the rest. Nor was it done in this instance.

"Well here," said Astor, gruffly, as the other councillors went out. He beckoned to Reilley, and spoke to him in a low tone, after which Reilley disappeared. Pat was with Larry, Irving and Brevoort stayed close to them, and Halleck, with nervous glances at Astor, presently joined them.

"I think it's going to be all right!" said Irving. "Astor's on our side, though he hates to admit it—he was more moved when Pat was telling her story than I had ever seen him."

"She shan't go to prison!" said Larry fiercely.

"That is not for you to say, Larry," said Astor. "The decision is yet to be made. For now—you will stay here, all of you, while I attend to some business that awaits me. I shall be back soon."

It was Irving who led the others to the window then, so that Larry and Pat were left alone.

"Larry—tell me you've forgiven me!" said Pat. "It's nothin' I'm caring for the others—"

"Pat—Pat, dearest—" Larry's voice was broken. "I've nothing to forgive—I've everything to thank for you! Except for you I'd have gone on making a fool of myself, as I always did before you came!

"I've learned now what it means to be poor—I shall be the better able to handle riches. And—what's mine is yours—just as you tried to make mine what was yours."—

A gleam of pure mischief lighted up Pat's eyes.

"How can that be, Larry?" she asked. "Sure, it's a young lady I am now, and not a wild boy—and young ladies cannot be taking money from gentlemen unless"—

"You witch!" cried Larry "Don't you know what I mean"—

"Patrena!"

Astor's stern voice interrupted them.

"Yes, sir," she said, meekly, turning to him.

Behind him, in the door stood Reilley—and he had with him the two small trunks that Pat had brought with her to Larry's house.

A Charming Serial of Love and Adventure in the Picturesque Days of the Beginnings of the Astor and Vanderbilt Fortunes

"I have reached a decision concerning you," he said. "One of my ships is sailing for London on this tide. You must sail upon her. Reilley is here to take you and your boxes aboard."

For a moment Pat, dazed, did not fully understand. Then a cry of gratitude burst from her.

"Then it's not to prison I'm to go?"

"Not this time," said Astor, gruffly. "You have had a very narrow escape, young lady. If Mr. Delavan had not been generous enough to forgive your attempt to despoil him of his inheritance, and if I had not been even more anxious to do him a favor than to uphold the law"—

He stopped, significantly. There were tears in Pat's eyes as she turned to Larry.

"Oh, I must go!" she said. "Good-by, Larry—and I'll thank you for all you've done for me! Will you—will you be missin' me a little when I'm far away, across the sea?"

"He will not!" said Astor, dryly. "For he goes to London to be time for all the season's gaiety. I shall be down [illegible] forgotten before he comes back to New York. And I have business matters in London that he can care for in my place, when he reads the letters of instruction he will find aboard the ship."

Irving's slap on his back, Brevoort's swift grasp of his hand, brought Larry, stunned by Astor's words, to his senses.

"Pat!" he cried, "To go together! Mr. Astor—I'll be grateful to you as long as I live!"

But Astor with a great show of firmness, waved him off. Pat, though, was no longer to be deceived. She rushed at Astor suddenly, threw her arms about his neck and kissed him.

"You're the best man in the wide world!" she said.

"He's not bad, he's the wisest, too," said Phil Rollins with a chuckle. "After he has put a minister aboard that ship, who's waiting, just in case he should be needed for a—christening or some such matter——"

Pat's cheeks flamed. But Larry, with a high head, turned to her, and—raised to her lips close to his own. And then, tenderly and gently, and because of the [illegible] kissed her.

"Thank you for that!" said Pat, when she [illegible] "That's the privilege of [illegible]. "We must be getting aboard while there's time."

And [illegible] be interrupted Larry [illegible] Brevoort and Phil [illegible] helped with the bags [illegible] Irving, [illegible] Astor [illegible] had all [illegible] Larry's doings and [illegible] on the deck with Irving for [illegible] and Brevoort and Rollins. Astor and Halleck, for [illegible] Larry and Pat were [illegible] as the sun sank down [illegible] and Reilley [illegible] the New York fading upon the western horizon [illegible].

WHAT THE STARS SAY

LUCKY DAY FOR MARRIAGES

AN unusually dull and uninteresting day is forecast from the prevailing sidereal operations. There is but a single lunar transit and an entire absence of mutual figures. Under these planetary conditions, events may be expected to move along in the usual routine grooves, with little of moment transpiring. It will be a lucky day for marriages.

A child born on this day may be expected to have a rather uneventful career.

Tomorrow will be unlucky to invest.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When washing dark garments it is a good plan to tack white cotton around the dirty patches before commencing to wash, so that these may be given an extra rub

When washing silk stockings, always use luke warm water and a good soap lather. Never mangle them. Allow them to dry slowly, hanging them by the toes.

• • •

To prevent white fabrics from turning yellow when they have to be stored away for some time, sprinkle pieces of white wax freely between all the folds.

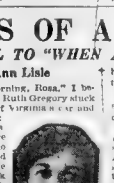
WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle



Ann Lisle

"GOOD morning, Rosa." Began, but Ruth Gregory stuck her head out of Virginia's car and said carelessly:

"Hello, Mrs. Cordova. You're just in time to turn around and follow the procession back to town. The doctor won't let Jim see a soul. Sorry you did not 'phone before you made this long trip."

Rosa giggled impertinently and advanced to the steps.

"Of course you do not go back to the town, White Lilac, and leave poor Jaime!" she said. "So it is maybe now you have company. Me—I stay."

"But I am going back to town. The doctor orders complete rest and quiet to Jim. If I would be a disturbing element, think how it would wear him out to have to talk business with you." I managed as suavely as if I weren't terrified over what Rosa might discover at any moment.

"I do not take this so long and dusty trip for nothing," said Rosa, stubbornly. "I am come out of the deep interest in Jaime. I do not think it nice that women should be so absorbed in work that they go off all at once and leave the so-poor sick man to be all by the lonesome. Me—I stay. I know—I am not invite. But then others come when they are maybe not invite. When the one we—love is in danger, we are not so haughty—are we, White Lilac?"

The malice of her tone told me that what Rosa didn't know was more than compensated for by what she suspected. I resented her probing and resented also the fact that Virginia hadn't the decency to help me handle the overcurious Rosa. But I found that I had an unexpected ally. It was Gracia MacAvoy who came out of the house at this moment. She had a statuesque poise as she turned to me and said:

"May I meet this—lady, who seems to be a business associate of your husband's?"

Her hand on my arm as she concluded speaking gave me a steadying sense that Gracia MacAvoy had a friendly understanding of the difficulties of my position.

"And now that your heart is set at rest about Mr Harrison's being left alone and to the mercy of the trained nurse and the doctor, won't you do as Mrs. Harrison suggests and leave her husband to undisturbed rest and quiet?" asked Gracia MacAvoy.

"It is a friend at court that my friend Annie, has—not? So our Jaime is protected from me and my friendliness—from all except the thing I shoud maybe want to have him saved from if it is I who have marry him."

Her words dripped innuendo. Her bright darting glances souzal Ruth Gregory there in the shadow of the limousine curtains and travelled across Virginia's face with the effect of prying out even her secrets.

With a sudden impatient gesture, Virginia stepped toward her car.

"Really, we must get to town," she said. "Will you come with me, Anne, or do you prefer to—escort dear Mrs. Cordova on her way?"

"Yes, come with me, White Lilac," purred Rosa with one of her abrupt changes in mood. "I shall anyway be glad to have you—and to be welcome is much. Since I am not permit to see Jaime. It is only nice I should be with his dear wife and that we—console each other."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color With Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

SPECULATORS HAVE ONLY A FEW HARVARD-YALE TICKETS

PASTEBOARDS WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

By NICK FLATLEY

Thes football ticket speculator is passing into history, like the old-fashioned doctor, and the town sport, and the bartender. He can't get any material to work with these days, and soon will be one of the memories.

Time was when the specs had sheafs of pasteboards for the Harvard and Yale game; when they stood in rows along Washington street and hawked their wares.

But they have been defeated. They find it almost impossible to get any tickets at all now. In the opinion of Fred Moore, who handles the million and one details of distribution for the big collision, not more than 50 entrance cards to the Stadium will get into the hands of the street vendors.

THAT IS A SMALL PERCENTAGE OF 50,000.

And 50 out of 50,000 is a very small percentage, a great tribute to the Harvard detective system. The well known sherlocks always try to sign up to investigate speculating. But they have been out for the last five years.

Harvard initiated a sort of honor system in regard to tickets. Harvard men pledged themselves to do the detecktivating, and the whole job has been a howling success.

Each year students, or grads, who were more mercenary than enthusiastic have been blacklisted. Each year the list grows smaller, until this Fall, Crimson officials are practically sure that not more than a dozen individuals are likely to be even questioned.

ONLY FOUR FOR SALE ALONG THE ROW

There were only four tickets for sale along the row according to the investigators. And they were not Harvard tickets. Their numbers were obtained. A couple of Yale men are in for bother.

The near lack of anything that can be purchased by the public has boosted prices way up into the skies. One of the private specs who does business away from the public eye, had four good seats, and sold them for $300. Which is nearly a record price.

The Harvard Athletic office is practically buried under applications these days, and it's a cinch that at least as many will be sent back as will be filled, when all the work is done. Some few returns are trickling in, but they're very few. The game this fall has a dual attraction.

Yale men believe their day finally has come to see Harvard humbled once more. Harvard men know that Yale should win, but down in their hearts is a hunch that the biggest of all Stadium surprises is going to be sprung. That, plus football's most enthusiastic season, accounts for the unprecedented demand.

Just for curiosity's sake, we interviewed one of the few speculators who was on the Washington street beat. He had a sheaf in his hand, and was singing a Cole Porter battle song: "Play, sell, or exchange Harvard-Yale tickets," always with a weather eye for a cop.

The bunch of ducats didn't seem to agree with what we had been told about the scarcity thereof. So we watched for a while, and found that the top one was for Saturday's game. All the rest were Brown tickets, which the speculator had left on his hands a week ago.

The lonar was in the wooden section, but the curbstone auctioneer wanted twenty-five berries for it, just they same. No doubt he got that, eventually.

While on the subject of crowds and things, it might be well to remark that the Boston College-Holy Cross affair, which winds up the season next week, will be a real sell out, also. This pastime has steadily shaped up as one of the best of a great year. Both teams have reached a point of development, which would make them almost unbeatable by outside contenders. With another week to go, the gladiators will be more than fit.

All attendance records for this particular game have been shattered. More than 25,000 reserved seats have been sold already, and unless the indications are wrong, the biggest football crowd in Boston history will be on hand a week from Saturday.

They can seat almost 75,000 at Braves Field, and 15,000 more can park themselves around the orchard, if they feel like it. And it looks now as if they would feel like it.

GEORGIA TECH GETS A NOTRE DAME DATE

South Bend, Ind. Nov. 22.—Knute Rockne confirmed a report that Georgia Tech will play the Notre Dame home-coming game in South Bend, Nov. 7, 1924.

Other contests for next year were not announced, but it is understood that Army has been signed to play at the Polo Grounds, New York, and that negotiations have been virtually completed which will send Notre Dame to Princeton again and bring Nebraska to Notre Dame.

'BEAT YALE,' IS THE CRY AT HARVARD

More than 1500 Harvard men packed the living room of the Harvard Union and cheered for two hours for a Harvard victory over Yale in the 42nd classic between the two colleges.

A victory over Yale was demanded and implored.

"Beat Yale, Beat Yale"—was the cry that boomed through the room and threatened to bring down the roof.

Captain Hubbard

The varsity team that is expected to start against Yale—Coombs and Hill, ends; Evans and Eastman, tackles; Dunker and Capt. Hubbard, guards; Greenough, center; McGlone and Lee, quarterbacks and Coburn Cheek, Hammond and Jenkins, backs —was on the platform.

The speakers were Head Coach Bob Fisher, '12, end Coach Ernest Soucy, 1916, and Captain Hubbard.

Fisher pointed out that Harvard was up against it's toughest assignment, but asserted that his team would come through with a punch.

FITTONS WILL PLAY SAINT ALPHONSUS

Saturday afternoon at the Everett High School field the Fitton A. C. football team of East Boston and the St. Alphonsus A. A. will meet.

The Saints will have Donovan and Flannery, ends; Barton and Whelan, tackles; Wiley and Brennan, guards; Rooney and Moynihan, centres; Harrison, quarterback; Powers, left halfback; Harrigan, right halfback and Costogan and Melledy fullbacks.

COLGATE AND BROWN PLAY NOV. 27, 1924

Hamilton, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Colgate will play Brown at Andrews Field, at Providence, Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, 1924, according to an announcement by Graduate Manager Bill Reid after receipt of a telegram from Brown officials.

YALE FINISHES HARD WORK TODAY

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 22.—The Yale coaches had a short scrimmage after a long signal drill. Both the varsity and the second team were in the scrimmage and lined up against the scrubb team for the last hard work before the Harvard game.

Coach Comerford

There was no score because twice when the backs got loose, the officials called them back.

The practice today will consist of a short signal drill for the varsity and the second team.

The freshmen had their banquet at the Taft and the scrub banquet will not be held until after the Harvard game

NEWTON AND DAVIS TO MEET IN FINAL

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 22.—F. C. Newton, Brookline, and H. K. Davis, Holyoke, will meet in the final round of the Carolina Golf tournament today. Newton defeated Chris Detbet, Youngstown, 3 and 3, and Davis defeated Donald Parson, Youngstown, 3 and 2 in the semi-final round

Davis led Parson two up at the turn and was four up with six to play. Davis, a long hitter, attempted to carry the trees and avoid the dog leg at the thirteenth hole, but failed and lost that hole and the next.

Newton took the lead early against Delbet and was three up at the turn and out in 34 to 38 for Delbet. Delbet holed an eagle three at 443 yards eight hole. Delbet had an opportunity at the tenth but missed a three foot putt for a win at the eleventh hole.

WARD IS TO COME HERE WITH MANY ROOTERS

Followers of Georgie Ward are coming up to Boston in large numbers to witness the Ward-Malone bout at the Arena on next Tuesday, according to the New Jersey newspapers.

"The action scene, in the 'Retreat From Moscow,' will be a side show compared to the exodus of Elizabeth fight fans who have announced their intentions of traveling to Boston next Tuesday to witness Georgie Ward's attempt to annihilate Jock Malone, the St. Paul battler, at the Arena November 27.

"Wherever one goes the main question of the day is: 'How are you going up?' Everybody and his wife or sweetheart seem to be planning upon taking in the bout that perhaps will be the turning point in Ward's career. Butcher, baker and candlestick maker are all going to Boston.

"The sudden burst of Ward popularity is sweeping the whole city like a flame and talk of the Elizabeth Adonis is on every tongue.

"Ward, himself, is taking the bout seriously and realizes that with this loss support he will owe it to the fans to cut down the St. Paul Colt."

"It will be a tough battle," advised Ward, "but I realize what it means to me to beat Jock, believe me, I am going to give all that I have to get him. Naturally, the big backing that I am now getting from the Elizabeth fans will spur me on to the best performance that I have shown yet, and I feel confident that I will be the winner when the last bell is sounded."

ELIZABETH, N. J., FANS TO HAVE SECTION

The Suffolk A. A. has been advised to reserve a batch of ringside seats for the "Ward party," the exact number to make the trip to Boston to be wired Friday night.

This is unquestionably the most important match in Ward's career, for in addition to establishing himself as one of the world's greatest boxers, victory means a match with Mickey Walker for the world's welterweight championship, which is expected to be decided before Xmas in New York in a charity show.

The Suffolk A. A. announces it approves of the Boston American's campaign for popular prices and so will not increase the assessment for this show, despite the fact it is for Malone and Ward large guarantees.

WILLIE HOPPE PLAYS AGAINST OLD MASTER

In a three-cushion carom match Slosson gave the champion quite a battle and was beaten 25 t. 24.

PFAFFMAN AND MALLORY IN A DUEL

Coach Hawley

Harvard and Yale both will enter their traditional struggle next Saturday on the Crimson's gridiron with dependable set artists available for scoring purposes.

"Memphis Bill" Mallory, blonde-haired captain of the powerful Blue machine and Karl Pfaffman, elongated Crimson expert, rank among the best drop-kickers of the season in the East.

Bill Mallory

Both have shown unerring accuracy under fire and both are adept in riffling the pigskin over the cross bars at varying angles and distances.

Pfaffman, whose drop kick gave Harvard the points that proved sufficient to down Princeton a fortnight ago, has been noted for several seasons as a toe specialist, but Mallory's rise to fame in this department has been one of the surprises of the year.

In fact, the Eli leader's fleet demonstration of proficiency came in the Army game when he booted one between the uprights that added to Yale's overwhelming triumph over the Cadets.

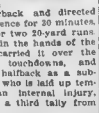
Since then, by way of proving that his initial effort was NOT accidental, Mallory has booted three more field goals, one against Maryland and two against Princeton last Saturday. His total of four puts him in a tie with McBride, Syracuse star for the leadership in this department in the East.

Besides Mallory and Pfaffman who has a marvelous kicking record over the past season or two when it is considered he is in the lineup exclusively for his particular specialty, both Harvard and Yale have other dependable kickers.

Stevens, who has scored three field goals, and Neale divided the Eli punting burden while in Jenkins, Cordingley and Hammond, the Crimson has a trio of booting stars.

DARTMOUTH AT IT HARD FOR COLUMBIA

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 22.—Because of the great need of every measure of preparation possible for the varsity eleven, Coach Jess Hawley made Dartmouth teams A and B scrimmage against the Columbia trained scrubs.



Coach Hawley

Coach Jack Cannell lined up with the third team at quarterback and directed the Columbia offence for 30 minutes, and got away for two 20-yard runs.

With the ball in the hands of the varsity, Haws carried it over the goal for two touchdowns, and Reeder, at left halfback as a substitute for Hall, who is laid up temporarily with an internal injury, broke away for a third tally from the 23-yard line.

Team B faced the scrubs for 20 minutes and scored one touchdown when Murphy plowed his way down the field, with the help of Bolles and Kilby, and scored a touchdown from the two-yard line.

Champion took Captain Aschenbach's place in the scrimmage, and Singleton and Ahiquist relieved Reeder and Leavitt in the signal practice which followed.

Forty-five men journeyed to Mel Adams' cabin for a steak dinner provided for the entire squad by Larry Bankart, who has been on Memorial field a large part of the season to assist the coaches.

TARAMASCHI TO BATTLE WALKER TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

Angelo Taramaschi, greatest of Italian wrestlers, will make his second Boston appearance when he battles George Walker, Canadian heavyweight champion, in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

You will see a greater wrestler tonight than the one who recently conquered John Rogalsky. In that tussle, Taramaschi was not in the best of condition, as he had not become acclimated after his trip to Boston from California. After wrestling for an hour, blood began to flow from the Italian's nose and ears. Despite this he battled on and finally won an impressive victory.

Taramaschi will have to show rare ability if he is to win this p. m., Walker is one of the best of the big fellows. He showed here last season and made a big hit with the fans.

We watched Walker's workout at the Tyler street gym. He was opposed by Stanley Stasiak. This mighty mat giant was obliged to extend himself more than usual in order to prevent his opponent from scoring a fall.

Walker plans to force the issue tonight and is of the opinion he will pin Taramaschi's shoulders to the mat.

Matchmaker Paul Bowser and Promoter Edgar Lothrop have made a decided hit with the fans by ruling that all matches at the Grand Opera House must be to a positive finish. This has resulted in larger attendances as well as more thrilling contests.

• • •

There will also be a strong preliminary card, Steinborn, star German wrestler, will meet Buchtel, while Bozines will tackle Marshall. Then so as to add a little class to the show there'll be a contest between a couples f lady wrestlers.

Our selections are Taramaschi, Steinborn and Bozines.

Young Tansey, Roxbury welterweight, will have Finney Boyle as an opponent in a ten-round bout at Lowell tonight. This should be a spirited contest.

Johnny Drew, who made such a fine showing when he clashed with Red Chapman in this city, will tackle Mickey Travers of New Haven in a ten-round skirmish at Worcester tomorrow night. If successful in his meeting with Travers, the Jackie Williams entry will be prepared to take on Chapman again. Each youth has a decision to his credit. Naturally the "rubber" battle would attract great interest.

Young Stribling and Joe Eagan will be supported by a strong preliminary card when they battle at the Arena A. C.'s show at the Boston Arena on Monday night. Red Watson of New Orleans will meet Eddie Williams of East Boston in the semi-final of eight frames. There will also be two more bouts. Kid Green of Memphis will clash with Eddie Waters of the city, while Frankie Curry of Nashville will have Terry Parker of this city as his opponent.

Jock Malone, another colorful boxer, will parade into town tomorrow to complete training for his ten-round contest with the skilful George Ward which will be staged by the Suffolk A. A. at the Boston Arena next Tuesday night. Malone sends words he will take the "sneak" punch out of Ward. Malone has defeated Mickey Walker, Lou Bogash, Pal Reed, Panama Joe Gans and Johnny Griffith here and is now out to conquer Ward.

Dorchester Post, No. 498, V. F. W., will stage an open amateur boxing show at Grandall Hall, Roxbury, next Monday night. The open classes will be at 126, 136 and 147 pounds. The 118 pound class will be for novices. Entries close Saturday with P. F. O'Hare, (No. 129 Walnut street, Dorchester.

"Tubber" Cronin, former Cambridge Latin and Westbrook Seminary four-letter man, has enrolled at Boston College.

Mason Defeats Rice

Beer and Light Wine for Olympic Athletes

Paris, Nov. 22.—Light wines and beers will form part of the menu served to the Olympic athletes electing to house their teams in the Olympic Village being erected near the Colombes Stadium. The settlement will be under the direct supervision of the French Olympic committee.

In the luncheon and dinner menus appears the following: "Half bottle red or white wine, or half litre beer, or half-bottle water."

YALE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

New Haven, Nov. 22.—The Yale football schedule for next season was announced by Manager Johnny Schoonmaker.

The arrangements have not been entirely completed with the Maryland authorities, but an invitation has been extended to them and the manager is sure that they will accept.

The Elis have voiced nothing but the highest praise for the Southerners and are anxious to continue as far as possible the friendly relations which have existed the past two years.

October 4—North Carolina.
October 11—Georgia.
October 18—Dartmouth.
October 25—Brown.
November 1—Army.
November 8—Maryland.
To enter Convention.
November 22—Harvard.

MAINE BASKETBALL CALLS OUT FORTY

Orono, Me., Nov. 22.—Forty candidates answered the call for basketball practice and under the direction of Coach Cuddy Murphy went through a stiff drill.

Maine has a hard schedule this Winter.

Captain Ollie Berg, of Springfield, who is now on the cross-country team, will be unable to report for basketball until the hill and dale men return from the I. C. A. A. A. meet at New York next Monday.

CULLEN WILL HELP COACH BASKETBALL

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 22.—"Timmy" Cullen, last year's basketball captain, will aid Coach Zahn and Assistant Coach Heep to develop the varsity quintet. He plans to stay until coach Zahn puts in an appearance and starts the regular work.

EDDIE MACK NOW ALL SMILES

With Young Stribling in town, Eddie Mack, manager of Joe Eagan, is all smiles once more. Eddie feels confident that Eagan will defeat the youthful Southerner who held Mike McTigue to a draw.

MOTHER TELLS HOW SHE TRAINS SON FOR HIS RING BATTLES

MACON BOY IS BOXING WONDER

The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that guides the punch, in the case of Mrs. W. L. Stribling of Macon, Ga.

Mrs. Stribling is the mother and one of the trainers of Willie Lawrence "Young" Stribling, nineteen-year-old claimant of the world's light heavyweight championship.

Stribling, who will fight Joe Eagan at the Arena next Monday night, claims the title by virtue of his unanimous newspaper decision over Mike McTighe in Columbus, Ga., October 4, last.

The Striblings, mother, father and son, came to Boston from New York and are stopping at the Copley Square Hotel.

BATTLER HAS TAKEN PART IN 85 FIGHTS

Formerly theatrical people, the entire family is now devoted to advancing the pugilistic career of "Young" Stribling, who has taken part in 85 fights in the past three years.

During that time the mother has taken an active part in the training of her son, who starting at 117 pounds now tips the scales at 165.

Mrs. Stribling, who showers the boy with "Precious" and "Darling" when talking with him, confesses she would rather see a good fight than anything else. When the family, with a younger son, were showing in vaudeville as the "Four Novelty Grahams," Mrs. Stribling frequently put on the gloves with "W. L." as he is called, and also wrestled with him. Up to last year she was able to hold her own with him at that.

BELIEVES THOROUGHLY IN GOOD OF BOXING

"I believe thoroughly in the good effects of boxing," said Mrs. Stribling to a Boston American representative. "I take an active part in the training of W. L., and when my husband is away I handle the boy myself. I not only see to his diet, but I massage and rub him, and at times put on the gloves with him.

"Up until last year I was able to hold my own with him, but he is getting too strong for me now. I would rather see a good fight than anything and I always sit near my boy's corner when he is in a battle. I attend every fight if possible and give him the benefit of my sympathy and encouragement.

"Our family are like brothers and sisters instead of parents and children. My husband, who is 37 years old, was only seventeen when he married me and I was one year younger. W. L. Jr., was born the following year, and from the first he has been brought up on a physical culture system. He has two meals a day only, generally fruit and vegetables, with no meat.

BOUGHT HIM GLOVES BEFORE HE COULD WALK.

"His father was determined to make an athlete out of him and bought boxing gloves for the boy before he could walk. Two years and fourteen months later the baby, Graham, was born, and as soon as he was old enough we all started out in vaudeville. We made eleven countries and forty-odd states, and settled down in 1917 to give the boys their education.

"W. L. entered school in the sixth grade but with my help—I was a school teacher before I was married—he soon caught up and now is well read.

"W. L. began his professional career as a boxer in January, 1921, and since that time has won twenty-four fights by the knockout route, received forty-three decisions, fought thirteen draws and two no-decision bouts.

INVITED CAPABLE BOYS TO BOX WITH THEM.

"When we traveled in vaudeville we used to invite capable boys from the audience to step up on the stage and put on the gloves with W. L. In that way he developed skill and experience. Grahams also picked up a lot of boxing knowledge in the same way.

"The New York Boxing Commission has not given W. L. a license yet but we think it will shortly.

"I believe strongly in boxing, as does my husband. It has been a great thing for the South, where years ago most quarrels were settled with guns or knives. Now the majority resort to their fists."

BATTLER HAD PLASTER CAST FOR PULLED HIP.

When the Striblings reached their hotel they found a flock of news papermen waiting to interview the young battler. He was wearing a plaster cast because of a pulled muscle in his hip. Mrs. Stribling and her husband removed this cast while the newspapermen looked on, to the accompaniment of a stream of "Precious" and "Darlings."

After the cast had been taken off Mrs. Stribling handed her son a gorgeous flowered silk Japanese kimono in which he wrapped himself and then patiently answered the volley of questions hurled at him.

Young Stribling stands ready to take on anyone, and is particularly anxious to meet McTigue again.

He's Still Her Darling Baby Boy

Here are the three Striblings Pa, Ma, and the Boy, Himself. W. L. is Still His Ma's Baby Boy and She can hold as easily as when he was an infant.

MALONSKY WINS IN NEW YORK CONTEST

New York, Nov. 21 (By Universal Service) — Father Knickerbocker's amateur mit-wielders fared badly in the openi... class of the A. A. U. inter-city boxing tournament held in Madison Square Garden before 5000 enthusiasts. Both of the local contestants in the 112 pound class went down to defeat before out of town op...nents.

William Davies, Pittsburgh, made a show of Phil Citrin of the Trinity Club, who was six inches taller than Davies.

Davies walked inside every lead the local boy made and with lightning speed countered with hard punches to the head and mid-section.

In the other bout in that class Mike Malonsky, of Boston, earned a close decision over Dominick Petrone of St. Lucy's C. C. after four rounds of boxing.

Malonsky displayed a wonderful defense in the first round when he picked off practically every lead that Petrone let go

This round easily was won by the Boston fighter. Petrone, however, was more successful in the next two sessions and scored many points

The judges, much to the disapproval of the fans, disagreed at the end of the round, and ordered an extra round Malonsky forced the fighting in this stanza and as awarded the decision

YALE AND DARTMOUTH TO PLAY ON OCT. 18

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 22.—A Yale-Dartmouth game for 1924 is assured. The Green will meet the Blue at New Haven, October 18.

The contest marks the resumption of relations with Yale for the first time since 1900, when Dartmouth was defeated 17-0, and will be the first game ever to be played in the Yale Bowl by a Green eleven.

It will be the fourth game for Dartmouth and the third on Yale's 1924 schedule.

Carver Ineligible

FOOTBALL GAME BY LIGHTS A SUCCESS

Playing football at night under powerful lights proved a success at the General Electric Athletic Field, Lynn, when the General Electric Engineers and Tufts College second teams played sixty minutes to a scoreless tie.

More than 2,000 spectators viewed the game which was well played by both eleven...

Hundreds of c...leges and high school players from differ... sections of the State attended the game to get an idea on the night game and all were loud in their praise of the manner in which the game was played.

Eddie Casey

RECORD ENTRY FOR COLLEGE TITLE RUN

All records for the number of colleges and individual runners entered will be surpassed in the fifteenth annual intercollegiate cross-country championship run at Van Cortlandt Park, New York, next Monday afternoon.

Harriers to the number of 318 have been entered by twenty-seven universities and colleges, it was announced by Charles W. Crawford, secretary of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics of America, under whose auspices the championship meet will be conducted.

Both these figures—318 entries and twenty-seven teams— are considerably above the enrollment for last year's varsity run, which set a record itself.

In 1923 the entries numbered only 256, sixty-three under this year's total, and the colleges entered numbered only eighteen, as compared with twenty-seven.

In the fourth annual freshman championship race on the same day another record breaking field will compete.

As an indication of the rapidly increasing hold that the cross-country championship race is getting on Eastern institutions, not one of the eighteen teams which competed last year has withdrawn this season.

They all will be there, with the addition of the following nine: Boston College, Brooklyn Poly, Fordham, Georgetown, Holy Cross, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Pittsburgh and Williams.

The other contenders will be Bates, Bowdoin, Carnegie Tech, Colby, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Maine, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Penn State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse and Yale.

Harvard and C. C. N. Y. have dropped out of the freshman contention, but Bates, Columbia, Dartmouth, Georgetown, Fordham, Pittsburgh and Swarthmore have been added. Against them will be arrayed Cornell, Lafayette, Maine, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Penn State, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse and Yale.

Come Along, Ye Sports!

THE SPORTS DEPARTMENT of the Boston American wishes to announce the opening of its annual campaign for raising money for the American's Helping Hand Christmas Fund.

We're starting early this year.

That is because the Sport Department hopes this year to break all its previous records.

It hopes to raise more money from the sport fraternity between now and Christmas than was ever raised by a single department of a newspaper for a charitable purpose.

You know the object of the American's Christmas Fund—to give a real Christmas to the poor children of the city.

This announcement is notice to you, gentlemen of the sport fraternity, that you may begin sending in your contributions NOW, without waiting for the usual call, just to give us a good start.

COME ON!

Army-Navy Warriors Ready for Big Battle

By TOM THORP

New York, Nov. 22.—The Army-Navy gridiron classic at the Polo Grounds is going to result in one of the hardest fought battles ever staged between these traditional rivals. Every effort is being made by both schools of learning to send their best representatives out on the checkered field. No stone is being left unturned in getting the squads in the pink of condition.

The Army is a trifle heavier team. Captain John J. McEwan is a strong believer in strength and weight to a football squad. The lads who will sport the livery colors of Uncle Sam's military school have been fed out on a petition agenst some of the sturdiest opposition in the country.

Notre Dame and Yale look to be about as nifty a pair of rivals as against whom any coach would care to send his charges.

The showing Army made against Yale was such that many think this season is going to find the soldier lads adding another victory to their win of last year.

For the first thirty minutes of that memorable battle Captain McEwan's pupils outplayed their Eli rivals by a margin sufficient to cause all to rate the present Army outfit as a first-class aggregation.

It was not until they began to tire in the second half that Tad Jones' lads began to score on their West Point opponents.

However, the way the Blue eleven ran rough-shod over Princeton on Saturday is enough to raise the Army's game a trifle in the opinion of most experts.

Then again, if the West Pointers win, they will go for the season a howling success.

ROLLER SKATING RACES TONIGHT

The roller skating racing season opens tonight at the Pavilion Skating Rink, No. 84 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. A two-mile amateur and a two-mile professional race is on the card. Some of the fastest skaters in this section have entered, and some lively racing is expected.

VERMONT GAME HAS EAGLE WORRIED

The Eagle is up in the air over Vermont. Practice has developed into a sturdy defence against the expected overhead attack of the Green Mountain team.

Coach Cavanaugh

Vermont at present has a fine forward pass system and that attack won most of the season's games.

Dave Morey has given a lot of inside dope to the Eagle coaches about the combination worked by Carroll Gooch and his pals.

Captain Semansky, usually on the receiving end of the Green and Gold tossers, is one of the fastest men on the squad and was the principal means of defeating the game Middlebury eleven for the State champion...

Coach Cavanaugh realizes that Saturday's game cannot be sacrificed as a first team holiday to assure a victory in the objective battle.

Men's Overcoats

$25.50 $60.00

We single out these two prices because they illustrate our policy of giving the most value at the price you want to pay. Both are low prices, for each represents a full measure of value.

$25.50

OUR idea in producing these coats was to give the biggest $25.50 worth of value that we could. They are made of pure wool fabrics, rich in coloring, soft in texture, warm without being heavy. They are big, comfortable Ulsters, for cold winter weather; shorter, lighter Ulsterettes and loosely draped Slip-Ons.

$60.00

THESE overcoats can only be compared to the very finest productions of expert coat tailoring. Any man who likes fine tailoring will instantly appreciate their quality. The handsome fabrics are as warm as they are luxurious to the touch. At $60.00, we are sure that you will not find the equal of these overcoats.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Is it good for busy, hustling, eagerly-ambitious men to be laid flat on their back once in a while?

That question has been much on my mind all this week, for this column has been produced each day in bed.

I don't know why, but my mind has reverted again and again and again to a little incident of a month or six weeks ago, an incident which made very little impression at the time.

It was lunching with the purser of a trans-Atlantic liner on board his ship, and, after we adjourned to his office, he read off a list of the amounts of money changed into dollars by the steerage passengers.

The majority of them were arriving in this country apparently with less than five dollars in their pockets.

Many of them had under two dollars, several had only one dollar and one or two even less than that.

While I was out in the thick of things daily this incident did not strike me as of any particular interest. I had lots of other things to think about; no end of things to do. What concern was it of mine whether a few immigrants had five thousand dollars or fifty dollars, or five dollars, or fifty cents in his possession when he reached our shores? That was his affair, not mine.

• • •

Yet, somehow, a few days of lying in bed, and a few rather sleepless nights have invested that incident with a world of fresh meaning. Think of the mental agony most of those poor people must have gone through. Would they be able to find a sleeping place? Would they be able to buy food after their pitifully few dollars had been spent? Would they find people here hospitable toward them? Would they be ex tended a helping hand, or would their plight arouse no compassion in anyone? Where would they be, how would they be circumstanced a week later, a month later? Would they have to become beggars? Might they even be forced to steal in order to keep from starving?

Remember, too many of these immigrants could not speak a word of our language.

• • •

I must confess that I've been wondering quite a lot while lying on the flat of my back as to what has been the fate of these poor mortals.

• • •

Now, it took a few days in bed to arouse my interest in and my sympathy for these unfortunates. Is it not just possible that for two or other men who fancy that they are tremendously busy rarely, if ever, pause in their business to ponder the lot of the unnumbered whom fortune has not smiled?

Are not the prosperous inclined to disdain any sympathy for the struggling and the strugglers?

The world having gone well for us, are we not tempted to grow indifferent, to become callous as to how it goes with others less favored?

• • •

Now you will understand why I opened this column with the query:

"Is it good for busy, hustling eagerly ambitious men to be flat on their backs once in a while?"

Such experience, do you not think, is needed to help some men to become less self-centered, less selfish, more sympathetic, more charitable?

In our mad chase after the things that are seen, are we not in danger of forgetting the transcendent importance of the things that are not seen—kindness, love, generosity, sympathy, friendliness, charity, tolerance, brotherliness, helpfulness, unselfishness?

Happily, it is some consolation, as world immigration, to reflect that in all probability some of those who arrived poor in dollars but rich in determination will climb to the highest positions in our commonwealth.

Some twenty or thirty years ago if Newsboy youth stepped from the steerage with $5 cents in his pocket. He is Ragnvald Anderson, Governor of North Dakota.

About the same time a poor Scottish mother also stepped out of the steerage, bringing with her several toddlers and hardly any money. One of these toddlers today sits in the Cabinet of the United states—namely, James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor. While explains, by the way, his sympathetic attitude towards immigrants is trouble.

One BILLION a Year Loss

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Government postoffice and other statistics show that the manufacturers of "wildcat" stocks, worthless securities that secure nothing and have no security back of them, fake oil stocks, worthless gold mine stocks and other stocks, take a billion dollars, one thousand millions, ten dollars for every man, woman and child in the United States, out of the people's pockets every year.

That excellent paper Labor, published for union workers in Washington, commenting on this great loss, the robbery of ignorant little people by big rascals, illustrates the point excellently with pictures reproduced here.

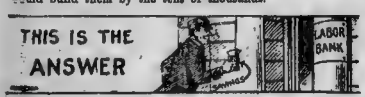
A picture tells more in a minute than ten thousand words could tell in an hour. The money stolen from the people by "get-rich-quick" schemers, would build two hundred thousand such houses as this every year, it would build a million respectable little homes at a thousand dollars each. And a first-class little family bungalow could easily be built for a thousand dollars, if contractors, willing to do the right thing, could build them by the tens of thousands.



Labor, very naturally and properly, advocates the depositing of money in a labor bank. There are many labor banks, carefully manged, and labor ought to encourage them. And apart from them, there are fortunately within reach of everybody, dozens of good savings banks that pay good interest, that are safe, and if you are very particular, there is the government postal savings bank which unfortunately does not do much to encourage depositors.

Don't buy wildcat stocks, warn your friends that only a fool puts money into that WHICH HE DOES NOT UNDERSTAND.

You know a REAL DOLLAR when you see it. Put your REAL DOLLAR IN A REAL BANK, let each dollar earn for you four cents every year, four dollars on every hundred. And when you have enough to buy something worth while, something that you thoroughly understand, BUY IT.

This picture, also from Labor, shows what might be done with the money that the schemers steal from the people yearly. Think what a hundred thousand well located playgrounds like this would mean to the children.

Finally, Labor wisely advises its readers to put the money where it will be SAFE until enough is saved to make possible the purchase of something WORTH WHILE and safe.

Nobel Prize for Physics

Honor Goes to California Man

It has been announced from Stockholm that the Nobel Prize for Physics has been awarded to Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan of Pasadena, California.

This is a very great distinction; it is not only a great honor, but it is an acknowledgment of a great service to mankind. Dr. Millikan, who is a director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics and chairman of the Administrative Council of the California Institute of Technology, was the first scientist to succeed in isolating an electron. It is interesting to observe that Dr. Millikan finished his scientific education at the Universities of Berlin and Goettingen, Germany. Steinmetz, the electrical wizard, who has just passed away, is another product of the German universities.

If we allocated to the educational institutions of the various countries the education of the men who have made great contributions to our civilization, we would then realize how vital it is for the world that the great German people preserve their vitality. We would then also realize how utterly absurd was the worked-up rage against the German race which we saw and which the intelligent ones among us held in such secret contempt during the war.

To Make Men Pretty

Jabots and Velvet Breeches

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

"Men are determined to break away from the horrible conventional black dress suit," according to a Paris tailor. So the tailors will try to make men look prettier. They are to have breeches made of velvet, worn with silk stockings, silver buckles at knees and instep. Their shirt fronts are to be frilled, and they are to have jabots, if you know what they are, instead of [illegible].

The coat will have short, sharp spiked tails, faced and lined with richly colored silk brocade, and instead of "hideous high hats" they will wear pretty tam-o'-shanters of plush with little [illegible].

Thus adorned, it ought not to be hard to marry somebody with money.

Will Your Widow Dress as Well as Your Wife?

THE combined funds of American insurance companies and fraternal orders exceeded $8,000,000,000 a year ago. They grow at the rate of about $2,000,000 each day. These savings held in trust represent a total of $55,000,000,000 of insurance to be paid on the death of persons now living; to protect their surviving families, their homes, estates or business undertakings from the financial hurt which their death would otherwise inflict, or to be returned to their owners as endowments. There is no comparable example of business co-operation.

The Human Headpiece

Editor Boston American

It is easy to refute Professor Jape's theory about the triangular human visage and the coming superman. His premises are false. The gorilla-like creature of antiquity was not a flesh eater; neither are his descendants of today. Mrs. Bradley, who ought to know, says the African type is strictly vegetarian, living on wild carrots, parsley and the green tips of bamboo. For the rest, mentality is not measured by the bulk of the brain, but by the proportion of convoluted surface to the whole mass. A triangle, standing on its apex, is extremely unstable. So is it generally with the facial contour and the informing mind.

A Word for La Follette

Editor Boston American:

Now that the race for the nomination for President has begun, I would like to draw attention to the man who I believe is the most ably fitted through knowledge and experience to fill the presidential chair. I refer to Robert M. La Follette. He possesses every qualification desired by every true American in a leader. He is a man who must feel proud of his record in the Senate, and it is a record that any man might be proud of. Oftentimes he could have been found batting single-handed and alone against those representing the predatory interests and the international bankers.

Wolf Near the Door

Editor Helping Hand:

I have six children to care for. My husband left us four weeks ago with just a few dollars between us and starvation. The State gives me a little help now until they find my husband, but it is very little, and we would have gone hungry if it had not been for the neighbors. The children are two boys, eleven and seven years old, and four girls, six, four and three years old, and a baby seven months. If I could get some warm clothes for them, it would help me a great deal to get along.

MRS. E. W. S.

Overcoat for Boy

Editor Helping Hand:

I have an overcoat for a boy about fourteen or sixteen if he is slight and a cap. I also have a number of women's waists and some shoes about 4½. I would like the address of Mrs. L. W.

MRS. W. W. I.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. L. W. . . . . of Rita, who has a brother fourteen, and also the address of Mrs. L. W. . . . . .

Some Things for Annie

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of the address of the girl fourteen who wants the Winter coat. I may find some other things. I also have a hat she can have. The girl I mean signed her letter Annie. I also have a bassin t with a lot of baby clothes in it. I lost my baby last month and the things may be useful to some other mother.

MRS. H. F. M.

It is mighty kind of you to think of the more fortunate mothers almost in the midst of your bereavement. You have our sympathy. You have been sent the address of Anna, and of Mrs. S. R., who will be very grateful for the baby things.

Many Want Kittens

So many answers were received to the offer of three young kittens a few days ago that all the letters have been forwarded to the generous lady who offered them, and she has been asked to pick out the lucky three. We are sorry there were not 178 kittens to give away.

Has Large Winter Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a large Winter overcoat for some needy woman. It is a good coat, but I have so many I don't feel like keeping them when so many poor people are without any at all. I also have a pair of shoes and a couple of pairs of black slippers and some good stockings.

MRS. E. R. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. J. M. R., who will be very grateful for these things.

Child Needs Winter Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a little girl twelve years old. I have no father or mother, only an aunty to keep me. I read the Helping Hand and saw all the help you give the poor. My aunty makes small pay and she cannot afford to buy me any Winter coat, so if you could get me one, even a lady's, she could cut a piece out of the bottom. I am ashamed of my coat, as it is too small. I could get along with my dress, as I wash it out at night, but my coat is so small and old I am ashamed. Hope you won't forget me, as you have so many poor to help, but my aunty works hard, and I try to help her all I can. I get wood for her, but she can't get me a coat, as they cost a lot, even a woman's coat.

EILEEN.

Aged Couple in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am an old lady sixty-three years old and cannot work on account of heart trouble and rheumatism. My husband is seventy-three years old and has been sick for three years. We are in need of clothing, both of us, and cannot afford to buy any. All I get is what my grandson brings in, and that just buys food for us. We have no coal or wood for the Winter, and half the time we sit here without a fire, and it is pretty cold. My size is 40 or 42, and my husband wears size 38 coat and pants 34 leg. I wear size five or five and a half shoes, and he wears size seven.

MRS. A. B.

Other Offers

The editor wishes to express his sincere thanks to the following people for their generous offers of assistance to those in need. They have been sent the addresses requested:

Mrs. O'C., Malden—Winter coat and other things for Annie. Mrs. S. H. P., Dorchester—Overcoat and other things for Mrs. D. C. B. Mrs. E. N. B., Cambridge—Help for Mrs. D. C. G. Mrs. A. Come, you Helping Hands, read the details on another page and get busy.

A NUISANCE THAT PUT BILLIONS IN OUR POCKETS

By Herbert Kaufman

THE gin was invented to separate the cotton from its excess seed, and not to separate the seeds from the cotton—quite a difference when you think it over.

Eli Whitney never dreamed of the shortenings, soap stuffs, salad oils and the cattle cake they held. His sole purpose was to rid Southern planters of an onerous nuisance. That nuisance has since put billions in their pockets.

Until Chicago packers wondered if some other use than fertilizer might be devised for the entrails, blood and ligaments of animals, nobody had ever bothered to mine the gold in offal.

Provisions would be twice as dear if abattoir by-products weren't paying a large share of overheads, not to mention dividends.

Several prominent breakfast foods are entirely composed of former mill screenings.

Earlier coke burners actually paid to have the sticky residue of their ovens carted away. Then a young English experimenter saw a dim rainbow glowing in the coaltar. Succeeding chemists followed it to the end and found the proverbial cache of riches hidden in the messy pottage. The dyes and drugs therein will eventually prove more than sufficient to satisfy prevalent needs.

Making One Boat Work for Three

Yesterday didn't know it all. Today doesn't. Tomorrow won't. The ultimate value of anything is yet to be detected.

Then some observing person noticed that, when rancid, they exuded a vegetable fat and the South Seas became outposts of industry.

In the beginning copra was shipped in bulk. After a while the obvious occurred to a quicker thinker than his competitors and the meat was rendered where firewood and rough labor practically cost nothing. Thereafter, one vessel could carry the cargo that used to require three.

Lazy-Minded Success

Earth over, intelligence is busy cutting out unnecessary mileage and eliminating extravagances from production and transportation.

The rubber that reached the United States before the war was filled with dirt and impurities which taxed every handling en route.

Virginia farmers have quit feeding goobers to hogs. They once did. No other way to utilize unmarketable crops. Demand for peanut butter has altered that.

The trail behind us is swampy, with economic leaks. The newer method is invariably the more efficient—the improved tool quicker and keener.

Success makes individuals lazy minded. When a man becomes prosperous, complacency and self-satisfaction usually dull his wits. Necessity keeps brains on the whetstone. That's why leadership is incessantly shifting.

And Look Where Steel Common Is Now

The young Carnegie, after showing Monongahela iron masters how many pets they were losing, in turn failed to perceive expanding markets and, so discounted the earning power of U. S. Steel that he would not have its common stock as a gift.

Nobody is so intolerant of a fresh outlook as someone who has just benefited from a stale viewpoint.

Originality's place is where folk have not acquired the habit of believing that "it can't be done."

Fervor and imagination are easiest served in a credulous environment.

The confidence and daring that break into the wilderness are most likely to beckon builder and dreamer to follow and complete the task.

Those who have risked the unknown and invested their careers on frontiers are logically the first to harken and support enterprise there.

America's Last Scratch

Ambition is discouraged and inspiration depressed where everything seems to have been already accomplished.

The men who contributed most to the making of America emigrated here because restrictions and prejudices, that habitually accompany overdevelopment, denied them chances to demonstrate native capacity abroad.

The Northwest and the Pacific hold the remaining scratches of the continent.

The least of their resources has not yet been touched. The Great Divide protects these last storehouses of energy and materials from hampering precedent and its obsolescences.

Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho and Montana are looking forward, not backward; carrying on from the peak points of prior achievement. They aren't burdened with antiquated machinery and out-of-date plants; they aren't cluttered with ramshackles, tenements and deteriorating investments.

They begin at electrification, motor trucks, automobile, power cranes, triphammers—with all the time-savers and distance-shavers already on the work bench.

Her natural wealths are practically available in original volume—waiting for exploitation by the shrewdest and most intensive practices.

She can make more goods for less money because she has the immediate wherewithals—boundless waterpower—super-abundant larders—cheap realty and a twelve months' open season, as against congestion, dearths, long hauls, fuel scarcity and interruptive climate in crowded, resourceless, rent-mounting territory.

For lower cost of living's sake, let's send more capital and competence yonder to speed her growth and to reduce our overheads.

Science's "Daily Dozen" for Eyes That Won't Behave

Flashing Cure for Eye-Strain: Close the Eyes and Rest Them, Remembering Some Color. Keep the Eyes Closed Until the Feeling of Strain Has Been Completely Relieved.

Vertical Squint Exercise. "There is no better way of curing squint than by first making it worse, or by producing other kinds of squint," Asserts Dr. Harris

Honorable Antonia Beacon, Said to Possess the Most Beautiful Eyes in England. And Even Hers Could Be Improved by Exercise

"SIMPLY sensational and sensationally simple"—this is the verdict of patients who have recently tried science's latest cure for "eyes that won't behave," a so-called "Daily Dozen" of optic exercises. And now oculists and opticians all over the country are awaiting, with eager interest, the findings of experts as to the actual value of this most recent extraordinary plan.

Whether a "Daily Dozen" will actually justify belief in it to the extent of doing away with glasses is not yet proved. But at least one specialist is convinced that the ground plan of the theory is firm. Backing him up are many laymen, who have literally "thrown away their spectacles"—and profited, they declare, by the act.

First impetus of the "Daily Dozen" theory's popularity is accredited to a Bostonian, Dr. Samuel J. Harris. Professional ethics prevent the Back Bay practitioner from personally giving a detailed description of his cure at this time; but those who have visited his laboratory in Huntington avenue assert that his "Daily Dozen" may revolutionize the care of the vision.

Briefly, Dr. Harris' "Daily Dozen" aims to apply the theory of "setting-up" exercises to the eye instead of to the larger muscles of the human body. He is still at work on a schedule of these eye-athletics, soon to be completed. He has, for months, been so occupied, revising, eliminating and substituting various movements; for it is his contention that the "Dozen" need not exceed that number to be of value, and that only specifically helpful motions should be prescribed for patients.

The first report of Dr. Harris' remarkable theory came in dispatches from Atlantic City, where members of the Electrotherapeutic Association were holding a convention. Among the speakers was the Boston professor, who created a furore with his revolutionary attack on the practice of prescribing glasses in every case of eye and nervous strain. Ninety per cent of the persons now wearing spectacles, he contended, could get the same relief from discomfort by means of a "Daily Dozen." In short, he ran up a flag bearing the slogan, "Throw away your blinders!" and great was the astonishment of the convention in the face of this bold piece of radical advice.

Remembering the somewhat drastic features of his speech at the convention, many persons with faulty sight deluged their libraries with requests for Dr. Harris' pamphlets and monographs. And from the latter they discovered more about this theorist and his beliefs than they could get from him, himself, separated from the public by the ethical barrier that governs modern medicine and its practitioners.

"The eye," wrote Dr. Harris in a paper on "Methods of Re-Education of External Eye Muscles for the Correction of Errors of Refraction Without Glasses," "is simply a perfected moving picture machine. The retina receives the image from the outer world, upside-down, and depends upon the mind to interpret the correct position of the object. This is not commonly known, but that we see largely with the mind is a fact, and if we had to depend upon the exact position of a retinal image, everything would be upside-down."

First printed in the American Journal of Electrotherapeutics and Radiology, this article, in itself, seemed to the conservative-minded to fire the opening gun in Dr. Harris' campaign. And when he followed it up with more explicit advice on Diagram of the Brain in Its Relation to the Eye, Showing the Process by Which an Object Is "Telegraphed" to the Mid-Occipital Region.

A Child-Patient Whose Vision Has Been Apparently Improved by the "Daily Dozen" Theory. Note the Clarity of the Eyes.

Anatomical Diagram, Showing Muscles Which Control the Expansion and Contraction of the Eye.

"mental eye-training," there was widespread interest in professional and semi-professional circles.

The nucleus of the "Daily Dozen" idea may be found in the five exercises advocated by Dr. Harris in one of his monographs. These are the palming cure, the flashing cure, the swinging cure, the imagination cure and the memory cure. The palming cure is declared to be one of the most efficacious methods of relieving eye-strain. "By this is meant the covering of the closed eyes with the palms of the hands in such a way as to exclude all the light, while avoiding pressure upon the eyeballs. Most patients are able to secure some degree of relaxation in a few minutes, and when they open their eyes, find their vision is temporarily improved.

"When relaxation is complete, the patient sees, when palming, a black so deep that it is impossible to remember or imagine anything blacker, and such relaxation is always followed by a complete and permanent cure of all errors of refraction (nearsight, farsight, astigmatism and even old sight)."

The flashing cure is described thus: "Close your eyes and rest them, remembering some color. Keep them closed until they feel rested, or until the feeling of strain has been completely relieved. Now open them and look at the first word or letter of a sentence for a fraction of a second. If you have been able to relax, partially or completely, you will have a flash of improved or clear vision. After opening the eyes for this fraction of a second, close and keep them closed until they feel rested. Then again open them for a fraction of a second.

"Continue this alternate resting of the eyes and flashing of the letters for a time, and you may soon find that you can keep your eyes open longer than a fraction of a second without losing improved vision."

The swinging cure is equally simple. "Close your eyes and cover them with the palms so as to exclude all the light, and shift mentally from one side of a black letter to the other. As you do this, the mental picture of the letter will appear to move back and forth in a direction contrary to the imagined movement of the eye.

"Just as long as you imagine that the letter is moving or swinging, you will find that you are able to remember it, and the shorter and more regular the swing, the blacker and more distinct the letter will appear. If you are able to imagine the letter stationary, which may be difficult, you will find that your memory of it will be much less perfect.

"Now open your eyes and look first at one side and then at the other of the real letter. If it appears to move in a direction opposite to the movement of the eyes, you will find that your vision has improved. If you can imagine the swing of the letter as well with your eyes open as with your eyes closed, as short, as regular and as continuous, your vision will be normal."

Of the imagination cure, Dr. Harris writes as follows: "Look at a letter at the distance at which it is seen best. Close and cover the eyes so as to exclude all the light, and remember the letter. Do this alternately until the memory is nearly equal to the sight. Next, after remembering the letter with the eyes closed and covered, and while still holding the mental picture of it, look at a blank surface a foot or more to the side of it, at the distance at which you wish to see it.

"Again close and cover the eyes and remember the letter, and on opening them, look a little nearer to it. Gradually reduce the distance between the point of fixation and the letter, until able to look directly at it, and imagine it as well as it is remembered with the eyes closed and covered. The letter will then be seen perfectly."

The memory cure is more elastic, and individual patients have their choice of a number of methods, though stress is given the fact that adults will have greater difficulty, especially if they have worn glasses, than children.

One of Dr. Harris' most astonishing theories is the curing of squint. Here is the terse way he puts it: "There is no better way of curing a squint than by first making it worse, or by producing other kinds of squint. To produce convergent squint, strain to see a point about three inches from the eyes, such as the end of the nose." Divergent squint is produced by fixing a point at a distance from one side of any object, and straining to see it as well as when directly regarded. Vertical squint is achieved by looking at a point below an object at a distance, and at the same time straining to see the letter.

These are, in brief, instances of a few of the extraordinary theories which have made Dr. Harris' "Daily Dozen" one of the most discussed topics in the twentieth century world of optical culture. And if his "Daily Dozen," when completed, takes as firm a grip on the popular imagination as bodily setting-up exercises, twenty years from now eye-winkings, switchings, squintings and rollings will be as common in the home as grapefruit for breakfast or bedtime stories for the kiddies.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

NEW JERSEY is trying to pass a law phohibiting the farmers from forcing their hens to lay more than 150 eggs a year. If this bill goes through it means that the chickens will be able to take life easy.

BUT, of course, if a hen wants to lay 200 eggs every twelve months then it's nobody's business but her own.

IT'S perfectly permissible for her to lay them all in one week and have the rest of the year to herself.

LAYING more than 150 eggs a year must be done by the hen's own will.

WHILE farmers mustn't force their hens to work overtime, there is no law against putting up a sign in the chicken coop which reads, "An egg a day keeps the hatchet away."

LOOK WELL TO YOUR OWN FAMILY BEFORE CENSURING THAT OF ANOTHER.

Why not give due credit to the person who, starting in life under a handicap because of family connections, lifts himself or herself up to a position of honor or trust.

When that person does do something praiseworthy, why do you always mention that his or her mother or father Was So and So?

As a matter of fact, the person who has lifted himself above his family level is deserving of more than the person who had everything to make a start in life and make it favorable and agreeable.

When you get the mote out of your own eye there will be no time to criticise the other fellow.

I'VE SURE ENJOYED MYSELF, FOLKS. BUT I'VE GOT TO GET BACK TO TOWN AND MY JOB
IT'S TOO BAD NONE OF OUR CARS ARE GOING IN
YES BUT YOU CAN CATCH THE 7 15 TRAIN

HOW DID YOU ENJOY YOUR WEEK END, FREDDIE?
AH' THEY WEREN'T CONSIDERATE ENOUGH TO SEND ME HOME IN AN AUTO. I HAD TO COME HOME IN A TRAIN
